Green Light On For Gemini 4

. Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The green light was on Monday for Thursday's scheduled launching of astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White on a daring four-day mission during which White is to exit into space near another orbiting satellite.

After wrestling for days with several pesky problems, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that all trouble areas were under control. Mission director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. gave the go-ahead early Monday after a midnight conference.

The bulk of the Atlantic recovery fleet, headed by the aircraft carrier Wasp, left from various Navy ports to take up positions in areas where Gemini 4 spacecraft possibly could land during the long flight.

Other ships bound for more remote areas in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans have been under way several days.

McDivitt and White, both Air Force majors, donned their spacesuits Monday to practice the flight in a spacecraft simulator at mission control center here.

Later they spent several hours reviewing the lengthy flight plan with Gemini officials and the backup crew, Air Force Maj. Frank Borman and Navy Lt. Cmdr. James Lovell.

The astronauts were reported in fine physical shape and anxious to go as the big day neared.

A major hurdle was cleared Sunday night when it was discovered that a water leak in the spacecraft was caused by human error.

Junta Will 'Never' Give OAS Control Of Palace

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera said Monday the civilian-military junta he heads will never give up control of the presidential palace to the Organization of American States (OAS).

He denied any agreement had been reached to turn over the battered former seat of government — only a block from rebel lines — to an OAS force.

Thousands of Dominican government employes meanwhile lined up under a broiling sun for their first pay day in a month. But they failed to get any money.

Payroll Mixup

Because of an enexplained mixup some of the $6 million made available by the United States to meet government payrolls was not transferred from the central bank to the local pay stations.

OAS officials, who are supervising the distribution, said they would try to get the payroll operation started again Tuesday.

OAS Secretary-General Jose A. Mora told newsmen Sunday night an agreement in principle had been made with the junta to put an OAS force in the palace and to extend the international security zone boundary to embrace it.

Imbert told the Associated Press the only matter under discussion now between the OAS and the junta was the extension of the security zone to cover the palace.

Sacked, Looted

The domed three-story structure was held briefly by rebel forces at the height of the civil war late last month. It was sacked and looted before it was evacuated after the Dominican air force strafed and bombed it.

The palace grounds' eastern extremity is only a block from rebel lines. Some of the sharpest nighttime firefights between rebel forces and soldiers loyal to the Imbert junta have occurred in the vicinity of the palace.

Discussions to extend the security zone lines east and south to include the palace grounds were discussed for more than two hours.

Nebraskaland Days To Get Booming Start

A cannon boom on the lawn of the State Capitol Tuesday morning is scheduled to begin Nebraskaland Days, the most ambitious project yet designed to boost tourism in the state.

The six-day program includes Indian dances, quick-draw competition, chuck-wagon breakfasts, a Miss Nebraskaland contest and a 90-minute parade Thursday evening in downtown Lincoln.

A Jaycee rodeo, held in connection with the celebration, is set for performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Sherman Field.

Appearances by western movie and television personality Dale Robertson are also scheduled.

Chief sponsor of the program is the State Game Commission, which hopes to make Nebraskaland Days an annual event.

—MIG'S FLEE—

Two Viet Battalions Decimated

Saigon, Viet Nam (UPI) — Eight Soviet-built MIG jet fighters turned and fled to the north Monday when they encountered a formation of U.S. Air Force jets bombing an ammunition depot 45 miles southwest of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

On the ground, in South Viet Nam, the bloody fighting against Viet Cong units throughout the five northernmost provinces tapered off. Helicopter teams evacuated the dead and wounded from what probably was the worst military defeat Vietnamese forces have suffered in the course of the war.

A U.S. spokesman said 16 F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers were dropping 40 tons of bombs on the North Vietnamese ammunition depot when the MIGs approached.

Jettison Tanks

He said the MIGs jettisoned their auxiliary fuel tanks to gain speed and fled when the American planes moved in to make contact, however. No shots were exchanged apparently, and the MIGs disappeared in rain clouds.

Communist forces pulled back Monday from their deadly weekend offensive, which centered in Quang Ngai province, 65 miles southeast of the big Da Nang Air Base.

Qualified military sources said that out of two Vietnamese battalions that participated in the heaviest action in Quang Ngai, some 350 men had been killed.

Wiped Out

The 1st Battalion of the 51st Vietnamese Army Regiment went into action Saturday with 300 men. Fewer than 50 returned Monday, with the remainder killed, wounded, or missing.

Of the 265-man 39th Ranger Battalion, more than 100 were killed and the remainder were wounded or missing. Two Americans, an Army captain and a Marine sergeant, were killed when the Viet Cong overran a small hill which the 39th Rangers were defending.

The American deaths raised the toll of U.S. forces killed in Vietnamese combat since December 1961 to 393.

There was no information on Viet Cong casualties. They usually carry off their dead and wounded.

1-2 Regiments

Vietnamese military sources said they believed the Viet Cong had a division of men in the general area of Quang Ngai province. U.S. military officials said the number probably was from one to two regiments.

U.S. military sources in Da Nang and Quang Ngai also said there were two battalions of North Vietnamese regulars in the Quang Ngai area. Military sources in Saigon, however, said the enemy consisted entirely of hard core Viet Cong units.

Only one Red attack appeared to have been repulsed. A Special Forces camp at Ha Thranh, about 15 miles west of Quang Ngai city, remained in government hands after a fierce fight. Heavy air strikes against the Communists were credited with helping prevent a Communist takeover.

'Save Youth' Group Growing

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Save American Youth (SAY), an organization founded nearly a year ago to keep potential dropouts in school, has become "involved in activities we had not even anticipated," says its founder, Dr. Wiley Russell.

The charitable incorporation, founded by Russell, his wife and the Rev. Dayton Olson on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus, originally proposed to provide $10 per month per child for lunch money, shoes and clothing needed to stay in school.

Now SAY activities and aspirations of both national and local units extend into several other phases of preventing dropouts and aiding Appalachian schools.

Whether SAY has helped the poverty situation in any way—and apparently it has since none of the 12 recipients of aid has left school—the founders have accomplished one goal of "involving students."

Pent-up Energy

"The majority of colleges students are interested in doing things," Russell said. "They have a lot of pent-up energy and interest which they are willing to devote to the 'war on poverty.'

"One of our main concerns is keeping college students aware and involved in what other students are doing," he said.

And students all over the nation have been involved by the thousands in book collections, money-raising projects and clothing drives. It took three Salvation Army truckloads to haul away the garments collected by NWU students during the days Lincoln was snowed in.

However, a massive Appalachia summer work program intended for thousands of students did not prove feasible due to the short time available for planning, but it is under consideration for next year.

Russell has no idea of the number of individuals participating in SAY projects since membership is by groups on college campuses, often operating through student senates.

47 Groups Now

As a result of a letter sent to each college in the United States, SAY has grown from the original NWU organization to 36 colleges in 23 states by November, to 41 colleges in 26 states by December, to 47 active groups at the present time, with the correspondence list numbering 116 interested.

Russell predicted that a second mailing will double the membership.

Not all college groups are able to provide $10 every month, but they do contribute in other ways to the six high schools in Breathitt, Pine Mountain, Whitely County, and Williamsburg, Ky., and Duff, Tenn., according to the founder-director.

Cumberland College students visit several elementary schools in the area, locating children who need aid, participating in poverty projects and helping the teachers.

More Expected

Lincoln and Nebraska have even benefited from local SAY programs — and a great deal more is expected with SAY and Dr. Russell directing one of the Head Start projects to be held at Malone Center this summer.

In addition, throughout the year, NWU SAY students have been tutoring some 30 children in the Lincoln area, in their constant attempt to prevent school dropouts. Collected clothing has also been distributed at Macy and in some Lincoln schools.

While every plan of Russell, his wife, and Dayton Olson has not yet worked out—including moving the SAY headquarters to Kentucky and a proposed literacy and remedial summer camp in Appalachia—their plans for collected money have gone further than expected.

The $10 per month per child is actually helping five or six children throughout a year by the purchase of quality shoes which last one child more than a month. Then the money can be spent on another the next month.

In addition, the money goes 25% further because community businesses are allowing a 25% discount on SAY purchases. By sending the money to the school principal for him to select the aid recipients and do the buying, SAY is also helping the economy of the Appalachia communities.

—NO INSTRUCTIONS YET—

Veterans Hospital Not Ordered Shut

Lincoln's Veterans Hospital, the closing of which was originally stayed until June 1, will still be open Tuesday on the deadline and still has received no instructions for closing.

Dr. Melvin Boykin, director of the hospital, said late Monday he had received no closing instructions and that the hospital would therefore continue in operation.

In January, when closing of the institution was first announced, a plan was submitted from the local hospital for closing by April 1.

That plan went to the regional office and to Washington, Dr. Boykin said, but has never been received back.

Since then, the Veterans Administration promised to keep the Lincoln hospital and several others open until June 1, while a presidential "blue-ribbon" committee considered whether they should be closed.

That committee has since recommended that the Lincoln hospital not be closed, but President Johnson has as yet taken no action on the recommendation.

A number of high officials have said they expect the President to follow the recommendations of the special committee, but until some official announcement is made there can be no certainty.

The hospital had ceased admitting new patients under the original closing order, but began admissions again under the agreement to keep the hospitals open until June 1.

A number of staff members have left the hospital or indicated plans to leave, however, and the patient load is down.

Boykin said Monday night, "We'll be operating as at present until we get orders to do something different."

He indicated he thought orders might well be received Tuesday, but said he'd had no notice that any final decision would be announced then.

Looking for something to do or someplace to go during this summer's leisure moments?

The city Park and Recreation Department has a new booklet out designed to answer all questions about summer activities at the city's 28 parks and playgrounds, six swimming pools and two golf courses.

The booklet has been distributed to all public and parochial schools and copies are available at the zoo, golf courses, pools and Park and Recreation Department offices at 1300 So. 27th or 15 and M.

The booklet gives details on the city-sponsored leagues for men's and women's softball, junior and adult tennis, little-league baseball, and Elks Baseball for boys 16-20.

In addition to these programs it offers information about summer clubs for handicapped adults and children; senior citizens club meeting times and locations; and square dancing club meetings.

For teenagers, the city sponsors Keen Time Club and Nine Hi Club. These groups meet twice a week for dances and swimming.

Red Cross swimming lessons, the Chet Ager Nature Center, summer ice skating at Pershing Auditorium and the Pinewood bowl summer concert series offer enjoyment for the whole family.

The city is also continuing its program of special services for groups.

Picnic equipment and games are available on loan as well as police assistance in blockading of a block for neighborhood street parties.

This year the seasonal greens fees for Pioneers and Holmes Golf Courses are $75 for adults and $45 for juniors (under 18 years old). Individual greens fees for the new year are $2.50 for weekends and holidays and $2.00 for weekdays. Players under 18 will receive discounts.

City playground activities for the summer will include handicraft study, softball, horseshoes, tetherball, box hockey, volleyball, and quiet games. The following playgrounds are open for sessions daily — the first from 9 a.m. 11 a.m. and the second from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.:

Brownell, 60th and Aylesworth; Calvert, 46th and Bancroft; Cooper, 6 and P; Dawes, 49 and Colfax; Elliott, 25 and N; General Arnold, L.A.F.B.; Havelock, 6224 Logan; Hawthorne, 300 So. 48; Huntington, 2225 No. 47; Merle Beattie, 19 and Calvert; Peter Pan, 30 and W; Pershing, 6402 Judson; Prescott, 20 and Harwood; Randolph, 1024 So. 37; Riley, 5021 Orchard; Roberts, 56 and A, Saratoga, 2211 So. 13; Sherlan, 2360 So. 31.

The following playgrounds will have recreation activities one session between 6 and 8:30 p.m. each day:

Break Up Bogalusa Scuffles

. . . WITH CLUBS

Bogalusa, La. (AP)— State troopers, decoyed by exploding firecrackers, rushed back to the scene of fist-fighting Negroes and whites Monday and broke up the street scuffles with nightsticks.

An official ban was imposed on street demonstrations in this racial pressure pot. Negro leaders threatened to call for outside help from Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other civil rights leaders.

Police Decoyed

The free-swinging fistfights between whites and Negro pickets occurred when police were mousetrapped into leaving the scene momentarily.

Ben Ragusa, assistant superintendent of state police, said whites decoyed police from one downtown site by exploding firecrackers down the block—then charged Negro pickets when officers ran to investigate the explosions.

Police Chief Claxton Knight said 10 whites and five Negroes were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace. A plate glass window in a shoe store was shattered during the brief battle.

"No injuries more serious than broken noses," said Knight. "Bonds were set at $100 in each case and all were bailed out."

Knight said five of the white men were from out of town. "Some from Franklinton (La.) and one from McComb, Miss.," he added.

In And Out

Civil rights pickets were withdrawn temporarily due to the feverish atmosphere along Columbia Road—the main street. About 600 white men were milling around in the two-block area much of the day.

The pickets returned during the afternoon. Again fist fights broke out and had to be put down by police. Four whites and seven Negroes were arrested in the second go-round.

The city council, meantime, announced that sponsors of a parade or march would have to notify authorities 24 hours in advance the proposed route, number to take part and the name of one person responsible for conduct.

Too Tense

Mayor Jesse Cutrer Jr. went on radio to report that the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, a Negro organization, could not stage a planned protest march Monday due to racial tension.

A. Z. Young, president of the league, told a Memorial Day weekend rally that if the stalemate continues he favors calling in any outside help available—specifically mentioning Dr. King.

"They say to us 'Don't bring outsiders in because they make matters worse,'" he said. "Well, I say the league should welcome anyone who can help us."

The Congress of Racial Equality has been backing the league's push for desegregation of public facilities, which has included picketing for equal job opportunities.

Turn Of Screw

Sidewalks battles are the latest turn of the screw in the civil rights vise gripping this southeast Louisiana city of 23,000—about 36% Negro.

Police and city officials faced a summer vastly complicated by guns in the hands of both militant minorities and teen-agers, who are out of school for three months.

Teen-agers form the backbone of the group of pickets and demonstrators readily available to the league. They also are prominent among white counter pickets who show up to jostle side-by-side with Negro pickets.

Tempers Short

Tempers rile easily on the sun-blistered sidewalks where angry whites jeer and Negroes watch sullenly.

Today's Chuckle

Woman to bridge club members: "I have the most marvelous recipe for goulash—all I have to do is mention it to my husband and he says 'Let's eat out.'"

More Expected

Lincoln and Nebraska have even benefited from local SAY programs — and a great deal more is expected with SAY and Dr. Russell directing one of the Head Start projects to be held at Malone Center this summer.

In addition, throughout the year, NWU SAY students have been tutoring some 30 children in the Lincoln area, in their constant attempt to prevent school dropouts. Collected clothing has also been distributed at Macy and in some Lincoln schools.

While every plan of Russell, his wife, and Dayton Olson has not yet worked out—including moving the SAY headquarters to Kentucky and a proposed literacy and remedial summer camp in Appalachia—their plans for collected money have gone further than expected.

The $10 per month per child is actually helping five or six children throughout a year by the purchase of quality shoes which last one child more than a month. Then the money can be spent on another the next month.

In addition, the money goes 25% further because community businesses are allowing a 25% discount on SAY purchases. By sending the money to the school principal for him to select the aid recipients and do the buying, SAY is also helping the economy of the Appalachia communities.

—NO INSTRUCTIONS YET—

Veterans Hospital Not Ordered Shut

Lincoln's Veterans Hospital, the closing of which was originally stayed until June 1, will still be open Tuesday on the deadline and still has received no instructions for closing.

Dr. Melvin Boykin, director of the hospital, said late Monday he had received no closing instructions and that the hospital would therefore continue in operation.

In January, when closing of the institution was first announced, a plan was submitted from the local hospital for closing by April 1.

That plan went to the regional office and to Washington, Dr. Boykin said, but has never been received back.

Since then, the Veterans Administration promised to keep the Lincoln hospital and several others open until June 1, while a presidential "blue-ribbon" committee considered whether they should be closed.

That committee has since recommended that the Lincoln hospital not be closed, but President Johnson has as yet taken no action on the recommendation.

A number of high officials have said they expect the President to follow the recommendations of the special committee, but until some official announcement is made there can be no certainty.

The hospital had ceased admitting new patients under the original closing order, but began admissions again under the agreement to keep the hospitals open until June 1.

A number of staff members have left the hospital or indicated plans to leave, however, and the patient load is down.

Boykin said Monday night, "We'll be operating as at present until we get orders to do something different."

He indicated he thought orders might well be received Tuesday, but said he'd had no notice that any final decision would be announced then.

Break Up Bogalusa Scuffles

. . . WITH CLUBS

Bogalusa, La. (AP)— State troopers, decoyed by exploding firecrackers, rushed back to the scene of fist-fighting Negroes and whites Monday and broke up the street scuffles with nightsticks.

An official ban was imposed on street demonstrations in this racial pressure pot. Negro leaders threatened to call for outside help from Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other civil rights leaders.

Police Decoyed

The free-swinging fistfights between whites and Negro pickets occurred when police were mousetrapped into leaving the scene momentarily.

Ben Ragusa, assistant superintendent of state police, said whites decoyed police from one downtown site by exploding firecrackers down the block—then charged Negro pickets when officers ran to investigate the explosions.

Police Chief Claxton Knight said 10 whites and five Negroes were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace. A plate glass window in a shoe store was shattered during the brief battle.

"No injuries more serious than broken noses," said Knight. "Bonds were set at $100 in each case and all were bailed out."

Knight said five of the white men were from out of town. "Some from Franklinton (La.) and one from McComb, Miss.," he added.

In And Out

Civil rights pickets were withdrawn temporarily due to the feverish atmosphere along Columbia Road—the main street. About 600 white men were milling around in the two-block area much of the day.

The pickets returned during the afternoon. Again fist fights broke out and had to be put down by police. Four whites and seven Negroes were arrested in the second go-round.

The city council, meantime, announced that sponsors of a parade or march would have to notify authorities 24 hours in advance the proposed route, number to take part and the name of one person responsible for conduct.

Too Tense

Mayor Jesse Cutrer Jr. went on radio to report that the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, a Negro organization, could not stage a planned protest march Monday due to racial tension.

A. Z. Young, president of the league, told a Memorial Day weekend rally that if the stalemate continues he favors calling in any outside help available—specifically mentioning Dr. King.

"They say to us 'Don't bring outsiders in because they make matters worse,'" he said. "Well, I say the league should welcome anyone who can help us."

The Congress of Racial Equality has been backing the league's push for desegregation of public facilities, which has included picketing for equal job opportunities.

Turn Of Screw

Sidewalks battles are the latest turn of the screw in the civil rights vise gripping this southeast Louisiana city of 23,000—about 36% Negro.

Police and city officials faced a summer vastly complicated by guns in the hands of both militant minorities and teen-agers, who are out of school for three months.

Teen-agers form the backbone of the group of pickets and demonstrators readily available to the league. They also are prominent among white counter pickets who show up to jostle side-by-side with Negro pickets.

Tempers Short

Tempers rile easily on the sun-blistered sidewalks where angry whites jeer and Negroes watch sullenly.

Booklet Offers Tips For Fun In Lincoln

By BOB GINN
Star Staff Writer

Looking for something to do or someplace to go during this summer's leisure moments?

The city Park and Recreation Department has a new booklet out designed to answer all questions about summer activities at the city's 28 parks and playgrounds, six swimming pools and two golf courses.

The booklet has been distributed to all public and parochial schools and copies are available at the zoo, golf courses, pools and Park and Recreation Department offices at 1300 So. 27th or 15 and M.

The booklet gives details on the city-sponsored leagues for men's and women's softball, junior and adult tennis, little-league baseball, and Elks Baseball for boys 16-20.

In addition to these programs it offers information about summer clubs for handicapped adults and children; senior citizens club meeting times and locations; and square dancing club meetings.

For teenagers, the city sponsors Keen Time Club and Nine Hi Club. These groups meet twice a week for dances and swimming.

Red Cross swimming lessons, the Chet Ager Nature Center, summer ice skating at Pershing Auditorium and the Pinewood bowl summer concert series offer enjoyment for the whole family.

The city is also continuing its program of special services for groups.

Picnic equipment and games are available on loan as well as police assistance in blockading of a block for neighborhood street parties.

This year the seasonal greens fees for Pioneers and Holmes Golf Courses are $75 for adults and $45 for juniors (under 18 years old). Individual greens fees for the new year are $2.50 for weekends and holidays and $2.00 for weekdays. Players under 18 will receive discounts.

City playground activities for the summer will include handicraft study, softball, horseshoes, tetherball, box hockey, volleyball, and quiet games. The following playgrounds are open for sessions daily — the first from 9 a.m. 11 a.m. and the second from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.:

Brownell, 60th and Aylesworth; Calvert, 46th and Bancroft; Cooper, 6 and P; Dawes, 49 and Colfax; Elliott, 25 and N; General Arnold, L.A.F.B.; Havelock, 6224 Logan; Hawthorne, 300 So. 48; Huntington, 2925 No. 47; Merle Beattie, 19 and Calvert; Peter Pan, 30 and W; Pershing, 6402 Judson; Prescott, 20 and Harwood; Randolph, 1024 So. 37; Riley, 5021 Orchard; Roberts, 56 and A, Saratoga, 2211 So. 13; Sherian, 2360 So. 31.

The following playgrounds will have recreation activities one session between 6 and 8:30 p.m. each day:

Belmont Park, 13 and Judson; Bethany, 1526 No. Cotner; Eastridge, 6245 L; Hayward, 1215 No. 9; Lake View, 1124 West Q; Meadow Lane, 7200 Vine; Norwood, 4710 No. 72; Pentzer Park, 27 and Fair; Whittier, 22 and Vine; Willard, 1245 Folsom.

All city swimming pools will be open starting June 5 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Charges for children under 11 will be 20c and adults will be 35c. The Lincoln swim club will hold meetings at Woods pool.

The children's zoo and the municipal zoo will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Over 30,000 copies of the recreation booklet are available for planning summer activities and learning more about the recreation services offered by the city.

U.S. Proposes Atom Sharing

. . . AT NATO MEETING

Paris (AP) — The United States offered Monday to share nuclear responsibility with a select committee of four or five other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) under conditions yet to be worked out.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara made this proposal to a session of NATO defense ministers as one possible further method of letting America's allies participate in the vital life-or-death decisions which might confront the West in some future emergency.

McNamara suggested a committee of four or five defense ministers to study:

—How to improve and extend allied participation in planning the use of nuclear forces, including strategic as well as tactical nuclear forces —an obvious reference to the American missile arsenal and the U.S. strategic bombers.

—How to insure immediate consultation on any decision to employ nuclear forces, taking advantage of all modern communications techniques. This could, for example, include several new "hot lines" between allied capitals.

McNamara said such a select committee should meet as promptly and frequently as necessary.

The secretary said the committee's studies on how to achieve wider participation should be submitted to a future meeting of the NATO defense ministers.

McNamara told the other NATO defense ministers that the United States feels it should join with three or four NATO members in working out at the ministerial level other measures to provide greater "nuclear participation" for NATO countries which desire such a role.

He said this would be in addition to whatever — if anything — the alliance finally does about the controversial proposals for a multilateral nuclear force (MLF) or an Atlantic nuclear force (ANF). Both these projects have encountered strong French opposition.

McNamara did not recommend any particular group of nations for his proposed select committee, but it was generally thought such a panel would include the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, and possibly Italy or some "spokesman" for the alliances's smaller countries.

McNamara, perhaps deliberately, left the details of his proposal vague. It apparently is a new U.S. effort to meet the claims of other NATO members for some voice in decisions which could vitally affect their very existence as nations in any future crisis.

Some sources described the proposed panel as an "executive committee" which could take quick action in an emergency. In the meanwhile, its recommendations on nuclear policy planning would be expected to have great impact on the alliance as a whole.

New Mexico Doubly Represented

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — When a call goes out on stage for Miss New Mexico, two girls step forward.

Then dark-haired Jane Nelson blushes, readjusts her Miss Arizona sash, and steps back into her place. And Judy Baldwin introduces herself as New Mexico's entry in the Miss U.S.A. pageant.

Both girls reign currently as Miss New Mexico, but Jane was selected to represent that state in the Miss America pageant and Judy in the Miss U.S.A. competition.

"I love Arizona, but since I'm also Miss New Mexico, I feel a double responsibility," says Jane. Her home is Tularosa, N.M. but she is a music major at Arizona State University.

Hails From Clovis

Judy hails from Clovis, N.M., but currently is an art student at Denver University.

New Mexico can be proud of both girls. Just as proud as Texas should be to know that Miss Louisiana is really Terri Marie Sommers of Houston. Or Louisiana that Miss Texas is Phillis Johnson of Abbeville, La

If that isn't enough confusion, Miss District of Columbia, Dianna Batts, is from Falls Church, Va.

Jane and Judy are identical in proportions, 37-24-37.

"I'm embarrassed when I step out at the wrong time," Jane said. "I do it unconsciousciously, but I had better start reminding myself that this time I'm Miss Arizona."

Chose Her

Blue-eyed Judy has a special interest in one of the pageant's guests, singer Pat Boone. He chose her most beautiful from photographs in a competition at Clovis High School.

"I doubt that he'd recognize me now," she said, waving an apple in one hand and a turkey sandwich in the other.

Apologizing, she said, "I eat like a truck driver. Yesterday I had five sandwiches for an afternoon snack. Competition makes me hungrier than ever."

Jane, whose reaction is just the opposite, loses appetite and weight. She was ill and stayed in bed one day.

"But my mental attitude has changed in the last year and I can take the pressure better," Jane said.

Capitol In Bad Shape

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Capitol wouldn't meet the District of Columbia building code if it were being built today and it's in dangerous condition now, says the Capitol architect.

The 150-year-old walls of the west front of the Capitol, now cracked and crumbling, are dangerously overloaded by modern building standards, Capitol Architect J. George Stewart has told Congress.

Stewart has been after Congress for years to shore up the west front, and now he says an outside engineering study shows the condition to be more serious and the need for repair more urgent than he had thought.

$24 Million

Stewart discussed the situation with a House Appropriations subcommittee and his testimony has recently been made public. He said it would take about $24 million to put the west front back in shape.

"And if the situation is permitted to continue, the damage could be incalculable?" he was asked.

"That is right," said Stewart. He said a sonic boom or any kind of earth tremor could cause the walls to collapse.

Under Stewart's direction the east front of the Capitol was moved 32 feet out and rebuilt a few years ago at a cost of $$11.3 million. What he has in mind now is not only rebuilding the outer walls, but redesigning the interior to add 4.5 acres of floor space to the Capitol. The east front extension added 2.5 acres.

Unsupported

The west front is the one facing the White House and downtown Washington. Capitol Hill slopes sharply down from the west front, leaving the foundation wall unsupported.

Stewart said the trouble lies in the central portion of the west front, built between 1794 and 1826, and the oldest part of the building. Everything is held up by walls and arches, with no floor slab.

"One of the most essential things is the mortar that is in these arches and walls," he said. "When the center section was built there were no lime deposits in this section of the United States.

"So what they had to do in order to get a mortar mix was to collect oyster and mussel shells from the rivers and creeks in this area and then grind them up.

No Cohesion

"Nobody knows if the sand was washed or whether it was proper sand or not. We find you can take the mortar from these joints and crumble it between your fingers. There is no cohesion at all."

Stewart said in addition cracks run all through the section and the stone facing on the retaining walls has separated from the rock behind it.

The report on the engineering study recommending the repairs be undertaken has been submitted to Speaker John. W. McCormack, D. Mass., chairman of a special commission for extension of the Capitol. Stewart said he expects the commission to act on the recommendation before July 1.

HHH Urges Mayors To Back Housing Dept.

St. Louis (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, himself once a mayor, urged nearly 300 mayors Monday to support a bill to establish a cabinet post to represent the nation's cities in the administration.

"You, as representatives of our great cities, deserve a voice at the highest level of government — in the cabinet," Humphrey told the U.S. Conference of Mayors here.

Humphrey, who was mayor of Minneapolis before becoming a U.S. senator, and then President Johnson's running mate, said a bill is now very close to floor action in Congress that would create a new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Press Onward

"Many of you individually and through the U S Conference of Mayors have worked for passage of this vital legislation," Humphrey said. "I respectfully urge you to continue the efforts until the bill becomes law."

Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, joined Humphrey in plugging for the cabinet post for cities. But a member of the Republican congressional task force, Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., attacked the idea.

MacGregor said that despite the fact that the federal government has assumed increased importance in metropolitan affairs. "the states and localities have the primary responsibility for meeting their problems."

Urges Office

MacGregor urged adoption of legislation to set up an Office of Community Development in the President's office. He said such an office would be needed even if the cabinet post was created because urban problems cross departmental lines.

Young, who like Humphrey urged "a federal department of cities to right the historic injustice done to urban dwellers," also called for a "massive infusion of federal aid" for urban areas.

"The hour has come for a domestic Marshall Plan which will simultaneously renew our central cities while affecting social rehabilitation of millions of people of all races who live in them," Young said.

These funds, he said, are needed to improve water works and sewage treatment plants and for new schools, hospitals, colleges, housing projects, mass transportation, parks and playgrounds and municipal buildings and cultural centers.

To Meet Needs

Humphrey also urged support for the proposed housing and urban development act of 1965, which he said would give cities resources to meet needs caused by population expansion.

Humphrey said the act would provide for rehabilitation of old housing, a large share of the cost of needed water and sewer facilities, and increase the federal share of assistance of 50% of cost of buying land for parks and open-space needs.

Humphrey said the bill also would provide rent supplements to help those with below-average incomes, which would "help older people, those in slums and those displaced by public building activity to move into decent homes at rents amounting to no more than 25% of their incomes."

MRS. LOUISE C. BROOKS

First Mrs. MacArthur Succumbs

Washington (AP) — Mrs. Louise Cromwell Brooks, 75, who was Gen. Douglas MacArthur's first wife, died of heart disease Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital

Mrs. Brooks was the daughter of Oliver E. Cromwell, wealthy lawyer, yachtsman and a descendant of England's lord protector. Her mother was Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia.

In an interview last year with Betty Beale of the Washington Sunday Star, Mrs. Brooks recounted that MacArthur proposed to her the second time they met.

"If he hadn't I would have proposed to him," she said. "He was the handsomest man I had ever met."

They were married in 1922 and divorced in 1929. MacArthur subsequently married Miss Jean Marie Faircloth. He died in April 1964.

Mrs. Brooks' three other marriages also failed. She returned to using the name of her first husband, Walter Brooks.

She will be buried in Oakwood Cemetery, between her mother and her maternal grandfather, James H. Roberts.

2 Prongs Driving On Buta

Leopoldville (UPI) — White mercenaries and Congolese army troops Monday advanced toward the eastern Congo town of Buta, stronghold of the Congolese rebels. About 100 whites are believed held hostage there.

Buta is 800 miles northeast of Leopoldville and about 200 miles north of the old rebel capital of Stanleyville, where white hostages were murdered by the rebels last fall.

Mercenaries led by Dublin-born Col. Michael Hoare captured the rebel town of Bondo Saturday and found only two whites there. There were indications the other whites had been taken to Buta, 120 miles to the southeast.

Two Prongs

Reports reaching here said the Congolese and mercenary force was advancing in two prongs toward Buta. One column was reported in Titule, 78 miles east of Buta, and the other column was approaching from the northwest.

Five white mercenaries were reported killed and several others wounded in rebel ambushes and counterattacks.

The advancing force also was slowed by bad road conditions—the rainy season is now starting in the area—and by elephant traps dug by the rebels.

Two Downed

Two mercenary pilots were downed by bad weather during strafing runs Saturday. They had been firing machine guns and rockets at the rebels in advance of the government forces.

One pilot, a Cuban refugee, was picked up by helicopter. The other, a Belgian, was seen parachuting, but a search party could not locate him.

The pilots were flying propeller-driven T28 fighters.

MRS. LOUISE C. BROOKS

First Mrs. MacArthur Succumbs

Washington (AP) — Mrs. Louise Cromwell Brooks, 75, who was Gen. Douglas MacArthur's first wife, died of heart disease Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital.

Mrs. Brooks was the daughter of Oliver E. Cromwell, wealthy lawyer, yachtsman and a descendant of England's lord protector. Her mother was Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia.

In an interview last year with Betty Beale of the Washington Sunday Star, Mrs. Brooks recounted that MacArthur proposed to her the second time they met.

"If he hadn't I would have proposed to him," she said. "He was the handsomest man I had ever met."

They were married in 1922 and divorced in 1929. MacArthur subsequently married Miss Jean Marie Faircloth. He died in April 1964.

Mrs. Brooks' three other marriages also failed. She returned to using the name of her first husband, Walter Brooks.

She will be buried in Oakwood Cemetery, between her mother and her maternal grandfather, James H. Roberts.

2 Prongs Driving On Buta

Leopoldville (UPI) — White mercenaries and Congolese army troops Monday advanced toward the eastern Congo town of Buta, stronghold of the Congolese rebels. About 100 whites are believed held hostage there.

Buta is 800 miles northeast of Leopoldville and about 200 miles north of the old rebel capital of Stanleyville, where white hostages were murdered by the rebels last fall.

Mercenaries led by Dublin-born Col. Michael Hoare captured the rebel town of Bondo Saturday and found only two whites there. There were indications the other whites had been taken to Buta, 120 miles to the southeast.

Two Prongs

Reports reaching here said the Congolese and mercenary force was advancing in two prongs toward Buta. One column was reported in Titule, 78 miles east of Buta, and the other column was approaching from the northwest.

Five white mercenaries were reported killed and several others wounded in rebel ambushes and counterattacks.

The advancing force also was slowed by bad road conditions—the rainy season is now starting in the area—and by elephant traps dug by the rebels.

Two Downed

Two mercenary pilots were downed by bad weather during strafing runs Saturday. They had been firing machine guns and rockets at the rebels in advance of the government forces.

One pilot, a Cuban refugee, was picked up by helicopter. The other, a Belgian, was seen parachuting, but a search party could not locate him.

The pilots were flying piston-peller-driven T28 fighters.

Truck From Michigan Brings Supplies To Aid Primrose Area Tornado Victims

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Primrose—Residents and tornado victims here still marvel at how quickly and completely aid came to them after the storm swept down main street May 8.

One of the most heart-warming accounts comes from Sister Mary Ann, administrator of St. John's Hospital in Spalding where the injured Gilbert McBride family recovered from injuries.

Sister Mary Ann has been in charge of distributing a whole truck load of clothing and supplies that rolled in from Michigan.

Even with heavy tornado losses in their own state, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Briggs of Birmingham, Mich., felt concern for the victims in central Nebraska.

Former Nebraskan Helps

Mrs. Briggs is a former Spalding resident, gone from here for 14 years, the hospital administrator said.

The Briggs spearheaded a drive to collect supplies for the former neighbors. The result was the load that arrived in Spalding two weeks ago in "the largest cattle truck they could get."

Michigan Gov. George Romney had to get special clearance for the truck all the way through to Nebraska because of its size, Sister Mary Ann said.

Victims from the Primrose, Wolbach, Spalding, Greeley County, Bartlett areas have all been into the Spalding Auditorium supply depot to receive clothing, appliances, kitchen utensils and toys, and there's still a lot left

Rummage Sale

Though tornado victims can still pick up things they need without charges, others are shopping at the auditorium rummage-sale style, and an auction will get rid of whatever's left later, Sister Mary Ann explained

As directed by the Michigan donors, any proceeds from the sales will go toward the hospital's building fund.

In Primrose Dorothy Staley, Red Cross coordinator for the state from the midwest area office in St. Louis, has been busy ("I wish I were triplets") helping the victims get back on their feet.

"The People are ready to really go to work," she said

Piles of clothing and supplies still fill the auditorium.

The Red Cross will remain in town "as long as we are needed," Miss Staley said.

She works in Primrose, helping people plan for purchasing the essentials to set up housekeeping again while Jane McNeill, also of St. Louis, travels the rural areas, taking account of needs.

Keep Working

Registration for assistance closed June 1, but the workers "will be here until we have plans worked out with all the registrants," the coordinator said

"Now that many are getting places to live and see what they've got, there are a lot coming in," noted Mrs. Gene Kraus, a local volunteer helping Bill McIntyre find some dishes for his borrowed home.

Several others who have been assisting much of the three weeks since the twister still are on the job, now sorting out clothes and utensils that "came in so fast" they couldn't be put in order.

The supplies were moved aside last Tuesday while the 16 Primrose High School seniors held their postponed graduation exercises.

ONE APIECE . . . Bill McIntyre passes out supply of dishes to youngsters David (left), Timmy, Keith and Lori.

Two Teachers Given Honors At Midland

Fremont —Two members of the Midland College faculty were revealed in a surprise announcement Sunday afternoon as the recipients of the newly inaugurated faculty achievement awards

Honored were Dr. Donald Wolfarth, associate professor of speech and director of forensics and Howard Izawa, instructor in physics.

The awards were presented by Dr Paul W Dieckman, Midland's president, at the conclusion of the school's commencement ceremonies on campus

Special certificates commemorating the awards and checks for $500 00 each were presented to the two men. The awards were initiated by the alumni association to recognize faculty members for outstanding achievement, loyalty and service to the college.

Dr. Wolfarth, a member of the faculty since 1953, directed the forensic program which has produced 17 state championships in four years, numerous national honors, and this year guided the team of men who won a pair of gold medals for debate competition at the national level

Izawa, who joined Midland's faculty in 1962, has gained recognition for his work in the natural gas industry as a computer expert.

Employment Expert Speaks At Doane

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Crete—Dr Harold T Smith of Kalamazoo, Mich., an alumnus of 1918, presented the commencement address at Doane College's 93rd annual commencement.

A director of the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research, the former economics professor was presented an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

Stressing the great need for "enlightened leadership at every level," Dr. Smith cited scientific and technical strides as challenges for this year's graduates.

He said some of the best known business colleges "obviously are turning out too many unhappy white collar office workers who never develop the capacity to take a place in top management."

"The liberal arts college has something unique for both the individual and society in that it focuses on the foundations of our democratic social order," the speaker stated, "and it brings together a body of faculty and students in the pursuit of that common goal."

Diplomas were presented to 52 seniors. A New York student and three Nebraskans topped the honors list.

Douglas Kellner of Larchmont, N.Y., received his degree summa cum laude. Magna cum laude honors went to Daniel Gross of Crete, Linda Kuhl of Beatrice and Vickie Schneider of Grand Island.

President Donald M. Tyler presided at the ceremony.

Police Chase Stolen Car In Omaha

Omaha (UPI)—Police took into custody Sunday a youth who earlier led city officers and Nebraska Highway Patrolmen on a high speed chase through residential Omaha

Officers in the auto theft division took the boy into custody on information supplied by several other youths and subsequently turned him over to the juvenile division for later action in juvenile court.

During the chase, the stolen car the youth was driving struck a patrolman's motorcycle and was struck by two bullets fired by a police officer.

There were no injuries.

Friend Graduate Never Missed Day of School

Friend — Twelve years of perfect school attendance!

It might sound simple, but as most students or former students know it's not.

Miss Kasl

But it can be done — as Shirley Jeane Kasl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kasl of Friend, proved when she graduated from the Friend High School Friday.

She never missed a day of school between first grade and her high school graduation.

She received an award of recognition for never missing a day both at her eighth grade graduation in 1961 and this year at Friend.

In the future she plans to attend the school of cosmotology in Lincoln.

Schuyler Scout To Serve At World's Fair

Schuyler — Alan G. Gless, member of Boy Scout Troop 277, has been named to serve at the New York World's Fair

As part of Service Corps Scout Troop 21 at the Boy Scout Pavilion of the fair, Alan will work at the "Wonderful World of Scouting" display.

The service troop, which consists of 36 scouts selected from six Nebraska and Iowa councils, will be at the fair until June 12.

They will act as guides at the Scout pavilion, color guards, and help the handicapped to view the fair.

Curtis Says Nebraska Must Keep Right To Control Own Work Laws

Sidney (AP)—Every Nebraskan should resist efforts of the Johnson administration to take away the right of the states to determine whether they want right-to-work laws, Sen. Carl T Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday night.

In an address prepared for a meeting of Cheyenne County Republican Women, Curtis said repeal of the section of the Taft-Hartley Act, which guarantees this right to the states should be a step backward. If this section is repealed, he said, "it will be unfair to everyone, particularly the workers"

Sen. Curtis said that through his experience as a member of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee, he obtained "ample proof" that when workers have the right to join or not to join a union, the result is better unions.

"If a worker has a right to drop out of a union," he said, "the union officials are going to be responsible to the members. Honest accounting of funds and just and fair operation of unions will result because the workers can drop out without losing their jobs if they are dissatisfied."

Omaha (UPI)—Police took into custody Sunday a youth who earlier led city officers and Nebraska Highway Patrolmen on a high speed chase through residential Omaha.

Officers in the auto theft division took the boy into custody on information supplied by several other youths and subsequently turned him over to the juvenile division for later action in juvenile court.

During the chase, the stolen car the youth was driving struck a patrolman's motorcycle and was struck by two bullets fired by a police officer.

There were no injuries.

Historical Group Meets In Ogallala

Ogallala (AP) — The spring meeting of the Nebraska State Historical Society will be held here Sunday June 6 beginning with a 12:30 p.m. luncheon.

The feature speaker will be Dr. James T. King, who will speak on "Forgotten Pagetna —The Indian Wars in Western Nebraska."

There will also be a tour of historical and scenic sites, and dedication of the pony express marker south of Ogallala.

Vagabounds At Fair

Crete—The Doane College Varsity Vagabounds will appear at the New York State Exhibit on Friday at the World's Fair.

They will perform with other community non-professional performing groups from throughout the nation on the stage of the mammoth and colorful "Tent of Tomorrow."

Curtis Says Nebraska Must Keep Right To Control Own Work Laws

Sidney (AP)—Every Nebraskan should resist efforts of the Johnson administration to take away the right of the states to determine whether they want right-to-work laws, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday night.

In an address prepared for a meeting of Cheyenne County Republican Women, Curtis said repeal of the section of the Taft-Hartley Act, which guarantees this right to the states should be a step backward. If this section is repealed, he said, "it will be unfair to everyone, particularly the workers."

Sen. Curtis said that through his experience as a member of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee, he obtained "ample proof" that when workers have the right to join or not to join a union, the result is better unions.

"If a worker has a right to drop out of a union," he said, "the union officials are going to be responsible to the members. Honest accounting of funds and just and fair operation of unions will result because the workers can drop out without losing their jobs if they are dissatisfied."

Friend Graduate Never Missed Day of School

Friend — Twelve years of perfect school attendance!

It might sound simple, but as most students or former students know it's not.

But it can be done — as Shirley Jeane Kasl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kasl of Friend, proved when she graduated from the Friend High School Friday.

Miss Kasl

She never missed a day of school between first grade and her high school graduation.

She received an award of recognition for never missing a day both at her eighth grade graduation in 1961 and this year at Friend.

In the future she plans to attend the school of cosmotology in Lincoln.

Schuyler Scout To Serve At World's Fair

Schuyler — Alan G. Gless, member of Boy Scout Troop 277, has been named to serve at the New York World's Fair.

As part of Service Corps Scout Troop 21 at the Boy Scout Pavilion of the fair, Alan will work at the "Wonderful World of Scouting" display.

The service troop, which consists of 36 scouts selected from six Nebraska and Iowa councils, will be at the fair until June 12.

They will act as guides at the Scout pavilion, color guards, and help the handicapped to view the fair.

Cop Injured, Robbed

St. Louis (AP) — An off-duty police officer was injured when his car struck a tree, and while he was lying injured in a field, two men drove up and stole his pistol, police said.

Summary Of Conditions

A large area of low pressure covers the western two-thirds of the nation with several small storm centers located along an east to west front which runs from western Indiana into eastern South Dakota and northwestern Nebraska.

Warm moist Gulf air is moving into the Nebraska area and is expected to create some showers. A cold front behind the low will be centered over Nebraska Tuesday.

Extended Forecasts

Kansas and Nebraska: Tuesday through Saturday, temperatures will average 3 to 5 degrees below normal in north central Nebraska to near normal northeast and to 1 to 3 degrees above normal southeast Nebraska, a few degrees below normal in Panhandle, and 4 to 7 degrees above normal southeastern Kansas. Normal highs range from mid 70s north central Nebraska to upper 70s eastern Nebraska, 66 to 76 Panhandle, lower 80s eastern Kansas. Normal lows range from lower 50s central Nebraska to upper 50s eastern Nebraska, 36 to 49 Panhandle, lower 60s southeastern Kansas, and lower 50s northwestern Kansas. Temperatures will rise slowly early in period and then turn colder about Friday. Precipitation will average three-fourth inch eastern Kansas to one-half to three-fourths inch western Kansas occurring as showers and thunderstorms Thursday or Friday. Frequent showers are forecast for the Panhandle toward the middle of the week.

Days Of Restoration

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Perhaps no one has ever researched the history of the practice of vacations but it should be done so we could give appropriate thanks to those responsible. Probably the practice is a part of some of the early labor movements As time off with pay has become a permanent part of our employment, the means of enjoying it have also advanced.

Catering to the vacation-hungry American has become a full-time job on the part of many people in many lands. Yet, the average American still takes a fairly simple vacation. The vast majority of them set out by automobile for a pre-determined place and have either two or three weeks to make the trip. This is the time of year when the vacation season hits its peak. Those with the best vacations this summer will be those who have profited from experience of prior years. If you have forgotten some of your past experiences, a little reminder might be in order.

Recalling Last Year's Trip

Remember the year you planned a 3,600-mile round trip by car during two weeks time? It turned out to be more of an endurance test than a vacation. The real vacation came when you finally got back home and back on the job, freed of the long hours on the road, the search in the black of night for a place to stay and the fretting of tired children.

Chances are you resolved then to schedule things differently in the future. If you want to travel 3,600 miles, don't figure on spending more than a few days at your main destination. And a few days means five at the most. That would leave you an average of 400 miles of travel per day which is plenty.

Those who don't know better might look at 400 miles a day and think they can do much better than that. With a generous supply of Interstate highway along the way, perhaps you can, but it is risky to plan on it. If you hope to stop and see anything along the way, 400 miles a day is plenty and you could have trouble making that much distance. Those who now look back on past vacations can contemplate what a shame it was that they rushed through various parts of the country without ever seeing many of the sights they passed by. They couldn't stop because they had a mileage deadline to meet and they missed a lot in the process.

What you ought to consider is the fact that it is not how far you go but what you see and experience that determines the success or failure of your vacation. Think, for instance, of the people who pass through Lincoln and Nebraska without stopping to take in a single attraction. As a resident, this might not seem so unusual to you but Nebraska has much to offer the traveler. There isn't a state capitol in the land, for instance, that can compare to Nebraska's and the history of the West is written in many of the historic landmarks that are found throughout the state. Lincoln itself is as beautiful a city as you will see from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. For strangers to the area, ignoring the state is a distinct loss to them, even though they may not realize it.

Camping out has become a popular way of vacationing with a growing number of Americans. But before you fall victim to the purchase of a lot of expensive camping gear, you would do well to make a trip with rented equipment. Even with rented camping equipment, you can still make a financial savings over the more conventional ways of vacationing. And you can find out in this way how the family takes to camping and whether a permanent investment would be justified.

Camping out offers a lot of advantages but it is not modern living. Nor are there sufficient camping sites yet to make such travel easily convenient. Camping often requires very early stopping in the day if you are to obtain a site, a situation not at all conducive to making time.

If you don't camp, you can save money by planning your trip ahead of time, seeing the major tourist attractions around the country can be a lot of fun but the prices at many such places are a pain of no small magnitude. You should plan either to get out of such tourist areas for your evening stopover or at least allow yourself enough time to move on if advance pricing of accommodations seems to make it advisable. You can't take any vacation on a shoestring but just a little attention to details in advance can save you a good piece of money.

Saving Money And Time

The idea of a vacation is to relax with a change of pace and find nourishment in exposure to new environment and new people. It will fail at that, however, if you make it a contest to see how far you can go, how much you can do and how much you can spend in two or three short weeks.

Nebraskaland Week

Starting today Lincoln will conduct its first six day program of Nebraskaland days.

The purpose is to combine entertainment with publicity on Nebraska, its advantages, its history and its recreation.

Today there will be outdoor and indoor entertainment at the state Capitol.

Thursday's emphasis on tourism and recreation will be highlighted by a Nebraskaland parade in the evening.

The final three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will feature a rodeo at Sherman Field.

The planning for the week has been detailed, but naturally speculative. Nebraskaland week should result in an annual program.

But one thing will be necessary. Lincoln people must participate largely. They must catch the spirit.

Actually Nebraska is beginning to identify itself, beginning to take on character. It is no longer a pioneer state. It has history and institutions. And it is feeling for the right sort of public observance. The planners of Nebraskaland week are making their efforts to pinpoint this character. But they will not be able to do it alone.

Let us hope the time comes when everyone sets aside this one week of the year to pay tribute to their state in an enjoyable manner. Until Nebraskaland week matures into what it will finally be let us all join in and make the most of it. That's how good things get going.

Power Of Suggestion

Any salesman knows the power of suggestion if he is successful but how many people realize how susceptible they are to suggestion? If you want something of someone, it is a good idea to begin the conversation on a positive note, to get the individual thinking in a positive way. This is more likely to invoke a "yes" than a "no" to your ultimate proposition.

This is behind the thinking of Robert Moses, the man who runs the New York State Fair. He has advocated that the weather bureau take a positive approach to its predictions. No one has yet figured out anything they can do to control the weather but Mr. Moses believes that we can do better with our predictions.

Instead of forecasting that there will be a "20 percent chance of precipitation," Moses said, the weathermen should say that there is an "80 percent chance of fair weather." The local Chamber of Commerce has claimed that the negative forecasts from the weather bureau have cut into the gate of many local attractions.

The way the weather bureau goes about it, the individual just considers that there is rain in the forecast because it is mentioned. If it were reversed, as Moses suggested, the individual would think only of the pleasant weather that is in the forecast.

Technically, the bureau has a point to make in its behalf but who can say that adverse weather conditions are any more important than good weather conditions? Maybe the bureau could compromise by accenting whichever weather condition tops a 50 percent possibility rating

The Town Of Scarsdale

Every few minutes during the day a Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train roars into the little station at Scarsdale, New York. In a few minutes it roars out, bound for The City (New York) which is about 40 miles to the South.

In the morning nearly all the men of Scarsdale take one of the trains in. They return northbound in the evening and their wives meet them at the depot and take them to their fine homes.

Scarsdale, founded in 1701, and incorporated as a village 50 years ago is what is known as a bedroom town. Most of its people make their living in New York City.

It is considered the richest town in the United States per capita. More than half its breadwinners earn $25,000 a year or more. The homes are well kept and large The people live the abundant life.

Even Beverly Hills, California, cannot produce the per capital wealth that exists in Scarsdale.

Scarsdale has no industry and its business is of a strictly suburban nature. But it does have education Its high school graduates go off to the name colleges and are well prepared Their classes in world affairs are aided by short wave radio They listen to programs as far away as Malaysia They study child development and the high school offers three courses in Russian.

The Scarsdale boys will grow into men who will hold the big jobs They have the right connections The town will have little experience with the administration's war on poverty

Nebraska does not have a Scarsdale and it doesn't have schools like Scarsdale But it is good to contemplate the Scarsdales They show what Nebraska could have if wheat were $4 a bushel, corn $3 and cattle at $45 a hundredweight.

Congress Ignores LBJ No-Travel Ban

WASHINGTON — Despite the President's proposal that U.S. citizens forego unnecessary foreign travel, congressmen are still junketing hither and yon. They almost meet each other coming and going at the taxpayers' expense and at the expense of our balance-of-payments.

No less than 23, led by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., recently spent four days in Ottawa and Montreal, Canada, discussing "issues of friction and misunderstanding" between our Congress and the Canadian Parliament.

Meantime, three House members—John Kluczynski, D-Ill., Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., and Frank Clark, D-Pa.—were sojourning in Lima, Peru, while discussing the "development of highways and highway transportation" with Latin Americans. The United States has the best system of super highways in the world, but the touring trio apparently figured there might be something to learn below the border while exploring the ancient city of Lima with all expenses paid.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem globe-trotter, will show up at the International Labor Conference in Geneva later in June, then junket to Algiers on June 29 for an Afro-Asian conference. It should be noted that he did an excellent job for the United States at the Bandung Afro-Asian conference, defending American progress toward civil rights.

Four members of the House Armed Services Committee, Reps. William Bray, R-Ind., Otis Pike, D-N.Y., Richard Ichord, D-Mo, and Charles Chamberlain, R-Mich., leave for Viet Nam on June 10 for a ten-day inspection of the conflict area.

Though it's supposed to be secret, there's a very good reason why mail is flooding the Senate Finance Committee opposing the Medicare bill

It's inspired by a private letter from Alexander Hutchinson, senior vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, instructing all Metropolitan agents to flood the Senate Finance Committee with mail.

In a three-page letter directed "to the field force in the United States," Vice President Hutchinson instructs all Metropolitan agents regarding Metropolitan's insurance program as compared with the Medicare bill now before the Senate.

"It is important for each person who shares the opinion that these provisions of 'Medicare' are not in the public interest to communicate his views to both senators from his state," wrote the Metropolitan executive.

"Members of the Senate Finance Committee, listed on the attached sheet, are especially important for they are now holding hearings on this measure. Please feel free to use any of the points made in this letter with which you agree, but be sure to put them in your own words."

Then, to make sure that Metropolitan's agents did write, Hutchinson added this kicker: "I would appreciate a report on the reception of your efforts, through each district office."

Note: Metropolitan is probably the biggest Life Insurance Company in the world, with thousands of agents all over the U.S.A. It will be interesting to see what impact they have on the Senate Finance Committee.

Coins In The Fountain Appeal To All

NEW YORK — We live in a pitch-penny society . . . We are a generation of wishful clinkers.

We toss away more than $100 million in cash a year, we Americans And large chunks of it go into pools, fountains and wishing wells.

To prove how pitch-penny we are — the famed Trevi Fountain in Rome, into which travelers throw money believing the ritual will guarantee their return, collects only about $300 a year. In the U.S., aquabanks do much better: A garden pool by the N.Y. Public Library not long ago was investigated and found to contain $537.55 in coins, two wedding rings and a pair of dice, believed to have been contributed in a pair of months.

☆ ☆ ☆

New York's water shortage recently has forced its restaurants and businesses to turn off their lovely fountains, and the city is much poorer for it. Aesthetically too, of course. Because more money is bestowed on this big city's small pools than on any other city's in the world — which is ridiculous, because they don't really need it. In fact, they don't want it. A Japanese fountain in the Chase Manhattan Plaza became so contaminated with $110 of filthy lucre in three months that its goldfish had to be removed to avoid a coppery death.

The New York World's Fair, however, does need money. So it is allowed to continue spouting its glorious fountains in its pretty pools

It is presumed that the fair's fair bodies of water will make even more money than they did last year (last year, maintenance men fished up more than $800 in the first three months, and that doesn't count the amounts recovered by young boys who lived for days on their aquatic assets), simply because visitors to New York have no place else to throw away their change.

What a shame for the restaurants in Manhattan. I've noticed that the many restaurants here which installed small pools, originally for aesthetic effect only, have done extremely well. The managements quickly learned that water is just about as much a lure for good money as the Specialties de la Maison. And the price of wishing on a flipped coin goes up in direct ratio to the quality of the restaurant.

Everyone has a theory on why people love to throw their money into pools. History records that this watery wastefulness began as early as the eighth Century B.C., when coins came into use and sailors tossed them into the sea as offerings to the sea gods. I have a few theories too:

In the first place, most of the coins tossed into water, with a silent wish, are pennies. And these days a wish is considerably more valuable than anything else that can be had for a cent. After all, when you've passed the age of bubble gum—what?

Secondly, we live in an economy that lives by the aggressive adage, "You've got to spend money to make money."

Tossing away our hard-earned change, especially while admirers are watching, gives us a momentary sensation of being big spenders. It is much more soul-nourishing than dropping a coin into the tip-dish of a ladies' room attendant who gives us a paper towel instead of a free wish.

Perhaps there's another psychological aspect that is even more important. It is a fact that coins in a pool will draw more coins (just as coins in a tip-dish are a reminder that more coins should follow). Therefore, we must feel the influence of the herd instinct; if other people have felt this pool worth clinking coins into, it must be a good deal.

Are we sentimental, smart, superstitious or stupid?

It's a toss-up . . .

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

"Water water everywhere and not a drop to drink," has been our lament recently. The rains came and came and came They drenched our area and filled the creeks and ditches They poured over the roadways, eliminating our passage to town in three different directions. To travel to our town to the east, we first had to go several miles west.

I thought of the old-timer who told us shortly after we moved onto our farm that he remenbered the time when one could travel from the pond to our house by boat after a heavy rain. A field lies to the west of the farmyard. It slopes down toward the pond. I could not imagine at the time he spoke to us that water would rise so high. While we were not thinking of boating the past days, we did see a lake of water rise over a portion of the field.

June is clover and bumblebee time. The radiant sun lights the fields where millions of blossoms yield fragrance and hues to satisfy the lusty insects.

A summer afternoon in June can be as calm and breathless as the sea. Trees become motionless. The far-off call of a quail breaks the silence along the fence rows. Cattle low softly and rest in the shade of the trees that line the creek banks It is just as well to forget the time and let the hours go by.

June also has other moods. There are days when clouds hang low and the sky is so drippy . . . days when a thunderstorm is as good as fireworks . . .

☆ ☆

The advent of the first strawberries comes in June. Luscious berries, plump and sweet, heaped in a bowl with sugar and thick country cream are among my favorite desserts.

I say "among my favorite deserts" for I have many. In a few weeks, scarlet cherries will hang from the boughs and I will anticipate fresh cherry pie wedges with thick pink juice ozzing from them.

When peaches are ripe and firm, peach glaze pie will be my favorite. Sliced peaches floating in cream are hard to beat, too.

Next fall, crisp apples will be my choice to put into apple dumplings.

Around Thanksgiving time, I add spicy pumpkin pie to my list.

My choice of desserts varies with the seasons.

The Farmer has two main standbys. He relies upon them all the time—either chocolate or apple pie.

When we eat away from home, he will choose apple pie first. If the cafe cannot supply him with it, he asks for chocolate pie.

I suppose I irk the poor waitresses but I always ask for the full "rundown" of all the varieties. Then I turn the list over and over in my mind before deciding upon my final choice. Blueberry rates near the top

☆ ☆ ☆

The iris have benefited from the rains this spring. They are big and frilly. Several varieties that were in full bloom at the time of the heavy rains were somewhat battered. "Cloth of Gold" and "Grand Canyon" have been especially beautiful.

Next fall I plan to set out a number of new ones. The pleasures one gains are twofold. They thrive without much care and the blossoms are lovely.

Perhaps next spring the garden will be under water and I will have to raise water lilies instead.

PIERRE J. HUSS

Hainan An Effective Red Chinese Base

NEW YORK — I have in hand a confidential report from Asian agents on the island of Hainan, a pearl-shaped tropical area of 35,000 square miles south of Macao in the China Sea. This report corroborates in detail the information previously supplied U.S. military authorities by Formosa intelligence to the effect that Hainan has been transformed by Red China into the most modern and powerful secret military operations base in Asia.

In cognizance of this vital information, Vice Admiral Paul B. Blackburn, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, recently said publicly that the Chinese land, naval and air forces on Hainan are under such close observation that they have been unable to interfere with the fleet's operations in the Bay of Tonkin.

The Peking warlords have gone about the job of developing this jumping-off platform into Southeast Asia with the utmost secrecy. The report in hand puts it this way:

"In view of developments in Viet Nam and neighboring countries and Peking's open declaration that Thailand is the next target, military activities on Hainan are ominous for the independent Asian nations. One must appreciate its importance to Peking when it is realized that even the farthest South Asian country can be reached by jet planes from Hainan within an hour. On this island China's defense forces have been kept in round-the-clock alertness to be deployed at a moment's notice.

"Peking by now has developed the island as an up-to-date naval and air base in South China. An air force training center has been established near Haikow, the island's capital facing the Gulf of Tonkin. This air base has several substitute runways in the form of nearby highways, parts of them being reinforced concrete."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Asian report on Hainan adds:

"Should the major runway become unusuable under bombardment in the event of war, these roads can be used as runways even for jet bombers. The South China fleet also is based on the island.

"Apart from being a strategic military base, Hainan plays a vital role in Peking's expansionist activities. It has been used by Peking for quite some time as a secret base for infiltration of agents and subversives into Southeast Asia and other countries. Trusted overseas Chinese and disgruntled elements from Afro-Asian countries are trained in subversive activities. Here they are given special training in guerrilla warfare and various maneuvers in tropical jungles.

"Like the Japanese at the start of World War II, the Peking communists realized the strategic importance of this island. On assuming power, they immediately put Hainan out of bounds even to the Chinese people. Communist officials of trusted loyalty are selected for duties and there is no fraternizing with trainees from foreign countries in the sabotage and terror camps functioning in isolated parts of the island.

"Since January of this year, extensive roadworks have been undertaken. These are being constructed or in some cases broadened for a roadbed that can carry 20-ton tanks or light aircraft. Late estimates show that 215 motorable roads now cover over 3,000 kilometers. Troops can be transported at high speeds from point to point on the island, so that uprisings which ripped into the Red regime in 1962 on the part of tribesmen in Li and Miao provinces are no longer possible."

The report said in conclusion:

"Haikow, the island's capital, has been developed as an industrial center. There are now over 150 factories turning out machine tools, chemicals, medium and heavy guns and allied products to support defense needs The coconut products and tinned goods formerly exported to Europe are being replaced gradually by an arms industry. The city on the whole has grown into a communist focal point, with huge new buildings serving almost exclusively some sort of government activity.

"The island's 150 state farms are staffed mostly by retired army personnel — most dependable elements in the eyes of the Chinese leaders. Tractors are in abundant evidence on these farms. These tractors can readily be converted into light tanks by installing armed covers on them. These tractor-tanks are capable of moving effortlessly on a 50-degree slope"

American military intelligence no doubt has much more specific data on file about the military capacity and aircraft on the island. Hainan is on our war maps a major military target if Viet Nam ever escalates into open war between the United States and China. The other equally important target on our war maps is Red China's nuclear bomb production factory in Sinkiang.

The Peking warlords can hardly fail to realize that the U.S. Air Force and the 7th Fleet can turn these targets into ashes within minutes.

Days Of Restoration

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Perhaps no one has ever researched the history of the practice of vacations but it should be done so we could give appropriate thanks to those responsible. Probably the practice is a part of some of the early labor movements. As time off with pay has become a permanent part of our employment, the means of enjoying it have also advanced.

Catering to the vacation-hungry American has become a full-time job on the part of many people in many lands. Yet, the average American still takes a fairly simple vacation. The vast majority of them set out by automobile for a pre-determined place and have either two or three weeks to make the trip. This is the time of year when the vacation season hits its peak. Those with the best vacations this summer will be those who have profited from experience of prior years. If you have forgotten some of your past experiences, a little reminder might be in order.

Recalling Last Year's Trip

Remember the year you planned a 3,600-mile round trip by car during two weeks time? It turned out to be more of an endurance test than a vacation. The real vacation came when you finally got back home and back on the job, freed of the long hours on the road, the search in the black of night for a place to stay and the fretting of tired children.

Chances are you resolved then to schedule things differently in the future. If you want to travel 3,600 miles, don't figure on spending more than a few days at your main destination. And a few days means five at the most. That would leave you an average of 400 miles of travel per day which is plenty.

Those who don't know better might look at 400 miles a day and think they can do much better than that. With a generous supply of Interstate highway along the way, perhaps you can, but it is risky to plan on it. If you hope to stop and see anything along the way, 400 miles a day is plenty and you could have trouble making that much distance. Those who now look back on past vacations can contemplate what a shame it was that they rushed through various parts of the country without ever seeing many of the sights they passed by. They couldn't stop because they had a mileage deadline to meet and they missed a lot in the process.

What you ought to consider is the fact that it is not how far you go but what you see and experience that determines the success or failure of your vacation. Think, for instance, of the people who pass through Lincoln and Nebraska without stopping to take in a single attraction. As a resident, this might not seem so unusual to you but Nebraska has much to offer the traveler. There isn't a state capitol in the land, for instance, that can compare to Nebraska's and the history of the West is written in many of the historic landmarks that are found throughout the state. Lincoln itself is as beautiful a city as you will see from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. For strangers to the area, ignoring the state is a distinct loss to them, even though they may not realize it.

Camping out has become a popular way of vacationing with a growing number of Americans. But before you fall victim to the purchase of a lot of expensive camping gear, you would do well to make a trip with rented equipment. Even with rented camping equipment, you can still make a financial savings over the more conventional ways of vacationing. And you can find out in this way how the family takes to camping and whether a permanent investment would be justified.

Camping out offers a lot of advantages but it is not modern living. Nor are there sufficient camping sites yet to make such travel easily convenient. Camping often requires very early stopping in the day if you are to obtain a site, a situation not at all conducive to making time.

If you don't camp, you can save money by planning your trip ahead of time, seeing the major tourist attractions around the country can be a lot of fun but the prices at many such places are a pain of no small magnitude. You should plan either to get out of such tourist areas for your evening stopover or at least allow yourself enough time to move on if advance pricing of accommodations seems to make it advisable. You can't take any vacation on a shoestring but just a little attention to details in advance can save you a good piece of money.

Saving Money And Time

The idea of a vacation is to relax with a change of pace and find nourishment in exposure to new environment and new people. It will fail at that, however, if you make it a contest to see how far you can go, how much you can do and how much you can spend in two or three short weeks.

Nebraskaland Week

Starting today Lincoln will conduct its first six day program of Nebraskaland days.

The purpose is to combine entertainment with publicity on Nebraska, its advantages, its history and its recreation.

Today there will be outdoor and indoor entertainment at the state Capitol.

Thursday's emphasis on tourism and recreation will be highlighted by a Nebraskaland parade in the evening.

The final three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will feature a rodeo at Sherman Field.

The planning for the week has been detailed, but naturally speculative. Nebraskaland week should result in an annual program.

But one thing will be necessary. Lincoln people must participate largely. They must catch the spirit.

Actually Nebraska is beginning to identify itself, beginning to take on character. It is no longer a pioneer state. It has history and institutions. And it is feeling for the right sort of public observance. The planners of Nebraskaland week are making their efforts to pinpoint this character. But they will not be able to do it alone.

Let us hope the time comes when everyone sets aside this one week of the year to pay tribute to their state in an enjoyable manner. Until Nebraskaland week matures into what it will finally be let us all join in and make the most of it. That's how good things get going.

Power Of Suggestion

Any salesman knows the power of suggestion if he is successful but how many people realize how susceptible they are to suggestion? If you want something of someone, it is a good idea to begin the conversation on a positive note, to get the individual thinking in a positive way. This is more likely to invoke a "yes" than a "no" to your ultimate proposition.

This is behind the thinking of Robert Moses, the man who runs the New York State Fair. He has advocated that the weather bureau take a positive approach to its predictions. No one has yet figured out anything they can do to control the weather but Mr. Moses believes that we can do better with our predictions.

Instead of forecasting that there will be a "20 percent chance of precipitation," Moses said, the weathermen should say that there is an "80 percent chance of fair weather." The local Chamber of Commerce has claimed that the negative forecasts from the weather bureau have cut into the gate of many local attractions.

The way the weather bureau goes about it, the individual just considers that there is rain in the forecast because it is mentioned. If it were reversed, as Moses suggested, the individual would think only of the pleasant weather that is in the forecast.

Technically, the bureau has a point to make in its behalf but who can say that adverse weather conditions are any more important than good weather conditions? Maybe the bureau could compromise by accenting whichever weather condition tops a 50 percent possibility rating.

The Town Of Scarsdale

Every few minutes during the day a Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train roars into the little station at Scarsdale, New York. In a few minutes it roars out, bound for The City (New York) which is about 40 miles to the South.

In the morning nearly all the men of Scarsdale take one of the trains in. They return northbound in the evening and their wives meet them at the depot and take them to their fine homes.

Scarsdale, founded in 1701, and incorporated as a village 50 years ago is what is known as a bedroom town. Most of its people make their living in New York City.

It is considered the richest town in the United States per capita. More than half its breadwinners earn $25,000 a year or more. The homes are well kept and large. The people live the abundant life.

Even Beverly Hills, California, cannot produce the per capital wealth that exists in Scarsdale.

Scarsdale has no industry and its business is of a strictly suburban nature. But it does have education. Its high school graduates go off to the name colleges and are well prepared. Their classes in world affairs are aided by short wave radio. They listen to programs as far away as Malaysia. They study child development and the high school offers three courses in Russian.

The Scarsdale boys will grow into men who will hold the big jobs. They have the right connections. The town will have little experience with the administration's war on poverty.

Nebraska does not have a Scarsdale and it doesn't have schools like Scarsdale But it is good to contemplate the Scarsdales. They show what Nebraska could have if wheat were $4 a bushel, corn $3 and cattle at $45 a hundredweight.

Congress Ignores LBJ No-Travel Ban

WASHINGTON — Despite the President's proposal that U.S. citizens forego unnecessary foreign travel, congressmen are still junketing hither and yon. They almost meet each other coming and going at the taxpayers' expense and at the expense of our balance-of-payments.

No less than 23, led by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., recently spent four days in Ottawa and Montreal, Canada, discussing "issues of friction and misunderstanding" between our Congress and the Canadian Parliament.

Meantime, three House members—John Kluczynski, D-Ill., Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., and Frank Clark, D-Pa.—were sojourning in Lima, Peru, while discussing the "development of highways and highway transportation" with Latin Americans. The United States has the best system of super highways in the world, but the touring trio apparently figured there might be something to learn below the border while exploring the ancient city of Lima with all expenses paid.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem globe-trotter, will show up at the International Labor Conference in Geneva later in June, then junket to Algiers on June 29 for an Afro-Asian conference. It should be noted that he did an excellent job for the United States at the Bandung Afro-Asian conference, defending American progress toward civil rights.

Four members of the House Armed Services Committee, Reps. William Bray, R-Ind., Otis Pike, D-N.Y., Richard Ichord, D-Mo., and Charles Chamberlain, R-Mich., leave for Viet Nam on June 10 for a ten-day inspection of the conflict area.

Though it's supposed to be secret, there's a very good reason why mail is flooding the Senate Finance Committee opposing the Medicare bill.

It's inspired by a private letter from Alexander Hutchinson, senior vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, instructing all Metropolitan agents to flood the Senate Finance Committee with mail.

In a three-page letter directed "to the field force in the United States," Vice President Hutchinson instructs all Metropolitan agents regarding Metropolitan's insurance program as compared with the Medicare bill now before the Senate.

"It is important for each person who shares the opinion that these provisions of 'Medicare' are not in the public interest to communicate his views to both senators from his state," wrote the Metropolitan executive.

"Members of the Senate Finance Committee, listed on the attached sheet, are especially important for they are now holding hearings on this measure. Please feel free to use any of the points made in this letter with which you agree, but be sure to put them in your own words."

Then, to make sure that Metropolitan's agents did write, Hutchinson added this kicker: "I would appreciate a report on the reception of your efforts, through each district office."

Note: Metropolitan is probably the biggest Life Insurance Company in the world, with thousands of agents all over the U.S.A. It will be interesting to see what impact they have on the Senate Finance Committee.

Coins In The Fountain Appeal To All

NEW YORK — We live in a pitch-penny society . . . We are a generation of wishful clinkers.

We toss away more than $100 million in cash a year, we Americans. And large chunks of it go into pools, fountains and wishing wells.

To prove how pitch-penny we are — the famed Trevi Fountain in Rome, into which travelers throw money believing the ritual will guarantee their return, collects only about $300 a year. In the U.S., aquabanks do much better: A garden pool by the N.Y. Public Library not long ago was investigated and found to contain $537.55 in coins, two wedding rings and a pair of dice, believed to have been contributed in a pair of months.

☆ ☆ ☆

New York's water shortage recently has forced its restaurants and businesses to turn off their lovely fountains, and the city is much poorer for it. Aesthetically too, of course. Because more money is bestowed on this big city's small pools than on any other city's in the world — which is ridiculous, because they don't really need it. In fact, they don't want it. A Japanese fountain in the Chase Manhattan Plaza became so contaminated with $110 of filthy lucre in three months that its goldfish had to be removed to avoid a coppery death.

The New York World's Fair, however, does need money. So it is allowed to continue spouting its glorious fountains in its pretty pools.

It is presumed that the fair's fair bodies of water will make even more money than they did last year (last year, maintenance men fished up more than $800 in the first three months, and that doesn't count the amounts recovered by young boys who lived for days on their aquatic assets), simply because visitors to New York have no place else to throw away their change.

What a shame for the restaurants in Manhattan. I've noticed that the many restaurants here which installed small pools, originally for aesthetic effect only, have done extremely well. The managements quickly learned that water is just about as much a lure for good money as the Specialties de la Maison. And the price of wishing on a flipped coin goes up in direct ratio to the quality of the restaurant.

Everyone has a theory on why people love to throw their money into pools. History records that this watery wastefulness began as early as the eighth Century B.C., when coins came into use and sailors tossed them into the sea as offerings to the sea gods. I have a few theories too:

In the first place, most of the coins tossed into water, with a silent wish, are pennies. And these days a wish is considerably more valuable than anything else that can be had for a cent. After all, when you've passed the age of bubble gum—what?

Secondly, we live in an economy that lives by the aggressive adage, "You've got to spend money to make money."

☆ ☆ ☆

Tossing away our hard-earned change, especially while admirers are watching, gives us a momentary sensation of being big spenders. It is much more soul-nourishing than dropping a coin into the tip-dish of a ladies' room attendant who gives us a paper towel instead of a free wish.

Perhaps there's another psychological aspect that is even more important. It is a fact that coins in a pool will draw more coins (just as coins in a tip-dish are a reminder that more coins should follow). Therefore, we must feel the influence of the herd instinct; if other people have felt this pool worth clinking coins into, it must be a good deal.

Are we sentimental, smart, superstitious or stupid?

It's a toss-up . . .

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

"Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink," has been our lament recently. The rains came and came and came. They drenched our area and filled the creeks and ditches. They poured over the roadways, eliminating our passage to town in three different directions. To travel to our town to the east, we first had to go several miles west.

I thought of the old-timer who told us shortly after we moved onto our farm that he remenbered the time when one could travel from the pond to our house by boat after a heavy rain. A field lies to the west of the farmyard. It slopes down toward the pond. I could not imagine at the time he spoke to us that water would rise so high. While we were not thinking of boating the past days, we did see a lake of water rise over a portion of the field.

June is clover and bumblebee time. The radiant sun lights the fields where millions of blossoms yield fragrance and hues to satisfy the lusty insects.

A summer afternoon in June can be as calm and breathless as the sea. Trees become motionless. The far-off call of a quail breaks the silence along the fence rows. Cattle low softly and rest in the shade of the trees that line the creek banks. It is just as well to forget the time and let the hours go by.

June also has other moods. There are days when clouds hang low and the sky is so drippy . . . days when a thunderstorm is as good as fireworks . . .

The advent of the first strawberries comes in June. Luscious berries, plump and sweet, heaped in a bowl with sugar and thick country cream are among my favorite desserts.

I say "among my favorite deserts" for I have many. In a few weeks, scarlet cherries will hang from the boughs and I will anticipate fresh cherry pie wedges with thick pink juice ozzing from them.

When peaches are ripe and firm, peach glaze pie will be my favorite. Sliced peaches floating in cream are hard to beat, too.

Next fall, crisp apples will be my choice to put into apple dumplings.

Around Thanksgiving time, I add spicy pumpkin pie to my list.

My choice of desserts varies with the seasons.

The Farmer has two main standbys. He relies upon them all the time—either chocolate or apple pie.

When we eat away from home, he will choose apple pie first. If the cafe cannot supply him with it, he asks for chocolate pie.

I suppose I irk the poor waitresses but I always ask for the full "rundown" of all the varieties. Then I turn the list over and over in my mind before deciding upon my final choice. Blueberry rates near the top.

☆ ☆ ☆

The iris have benefited from the rains this spring. They are big and frilly. Several varieties that were in full bloom at the time of the heavy rains were somewhat battered. "Cloth of Gold" and "Grand Canyon" have been especially beautiful.

Next fall I plan to set out a number of new ones. The pleasures one gains are twofold. They thrive without much care and the blossoms are lovely.

Perhaps next spring the garden will be under water and I will have to raise water lilies instead.

PIERRE J. HUSS

Hainan An Effective Red Chinese Base

NEW YORK — I have in hand a confidential report from Asian agents on the island of Hainan, a pearl-shaped tropical area of 35,000 square miles south of Macao in the China Sea. This report corroborates in detail the information previously supplied U.S. military authorities by Formosa intelligence to the effect that Hainan has been transformed by Red China into the most modern and powerful secret military operations base in Asia.

In cognizance of this vital information, Vice Admiral Paul B. Blackburn, commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, recently said publicly that the Chinese land, naval and air forces on Hainan are under such close observation that they have been unable to interfere with the fleet's operations in the Bay of Tonkin.

The Peking warlords have gone about the job of developing this jumping-off platform into Southeast Asia with the utmost secrecy. The report in hand puts it this way:

"In view of developments in Viet Nam and neighboring countries and Peking's open declaration that Thailand is the next target, military activities on Hainan are ominous for the independent Asian nations. One must appreciate its importance to Peking when it is realized that even the farthest South Asian country can be reached by jet planes from Hainan within an hour. On this island China's defense forces have been kept in round-the-clock alertness to be deployed at a moment's notice.

"Peking by now has developed the island as an up-to-date naval and air base in South China. An air force training center has been established near Haikow, the island's capital facing the Gulf of Tonkin. This air base has several substitute runways in the form of nearby highways, parts of them being reinforced concrete."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Asian report on Hainan adds:

"Should the major runway become unusuable under bombardment in the event of war, these roads can be used as runways even for jet bombers. The South China fleet also is based on the island.

"Apart from being a strategic military base, Hainan plays a vital role in Peking's expansionist activities. It has been used by Peking for quite some time as a secret base for infiltration of agents and subversives into Southeast Asia and other countries. Trusted overseas Chinese and disgruntled elements from Afro-Asian countries are trained in subversive activities. Here they are given special training in guerrilla warfare and various maneuvers in tropical jungles.

"Like the Japanese at the start of World War II, the Peking communists realized the strategic importance of this island. On assuming power, they immediately put Hainan out of bounds even to the Chinese people. Communist officials of trusted loyalty are selected for duties and there is no fraternizing with trainees from foreign countries in the sabotage and terror camps functioning in isolated parts of the island.

"Since January of this year, extensive roadworks have been undertaken. These are being constructed or in some cases broadened for a roadbed that can carry 20-ton tanks or light aircraft. Late estimates show that 215 motorable roads now cover over 3,000 kilometers. Troops can be transported at high speeds from point to point on the island, so that uprisings which ripped into the Red regime in 1962 on the part of tribesmen in Li and Miao provinces are no longer possible."

The report said in conclusion:

"Haikow, the island's capital, has been developed as an industrial center. There are now over 150 factories turning out machine tools, chemicals, medium and heavy guns and allied products to support defense needs. The coconut products and tinned goods formerly exported to Europe are being replaced gradually by an arms industry. The city on the whole has grown into a communist focal point, with huge new buildings serving almost exclusively some sort of government activity.

"The island's 150 state farms are staffed mostly by retired army personnel — most dependable elements in the eyes of the Chinese leaders. Tractors are in abundant evidence on these farms. These tractors can readily be converted into light tanks by installing armed covers on them. These tractor-tanks are capable of moving effortlessly on a 50-degree slope."

American military intelligence no doubt has much more specific data on file about the military capacity and aircraft on the island. Hainan is on our war maps a major military target if Viet Nam ever escalates into open war between the United States and China. The other equally important target on our war maps is Red China's nuclear bomb production factory in Sinkiang.

The Peking warlords can hardly fail to realize that the U.S. Air Force and the 7th Fleet can turn these targets into ashes within minutes.

"Ready for the dance, Sally?"

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Writer Taylor Caldwell Urges Self-Reliance

By ROBERT PETERSON

This column isn't often privileged to hear from literary celebrities. But a letter arrived the other day from Taylor Caldwell, authoress of a string of best-selling novels, who said she liked my recent column calling for revival of interest in the fable of the ant and the grasshopper.

The ant, it will be recalled, worked and saved through the sunny days of spring and summer, while the grasshopper played and danced. When winter came the ant was snug in his warm home with a cellar full of goodies. But the grasshopper was out in the cold—hungry and broke.

Miss Caldwell, 64, is a great-grandmother who still works 12 to 18 hours a day. She lives in Buffalo, N.Y., with her husband, 76, who is her collaborator, editor and business manager. She writes:

"I often wonder what has happened to the American Character. Our nation offers such splendid opportunities. Yet so many people today seem appalled at the thought of hard work, and give no thought to thrift or the future. So many other complain that they lack advantages.

"My family was poor, yet I never thought myself underprivileged or deprived. I finished high school, got a job and enrolled for night courses in college. There were no scholarships, tuition was high and the pace of working all day and studying half the night was difficult. But I was glad to be living in a country where it was possible to work one's way through college. I didn't think of myself as a martyr but as a responsible young adult who had work to do, money to earn and a future to mold.

"When I was a young wife and mother, prices were comparatively just as high as they are now and wages were much lower. Yet somehow we always managed to save a dollar or two a week. It wasn't much but it was something, and it helped establish a habit for thrift.

"It's true I didn't have a car at first, or beautiful clothes, or the luxury of a hairdresser. We didn't take expensive trips and our entertainment consisted of a movie or two a year. We derived our joys from companionship and the hard work necessary in getting established.

"Sometimes today I meet old acquaintances who were dancing away their youthful years while I was going to night school. Many of these girls married fairly prosperous men but are now widows and reduced to living on Social Security. They often whine how hard life has treated them. But I tell them it didn't treat them as roughly as it treated me.

"I ask them brutally why they didn't acquire some employable skills, or why they didn't save their money when their husbands were making it instead of indulging assorted luxuries such as fine homes, clothes, jewels and vacations.

"Their usual response is that they were having such a good time that they never thought about the future. How can people be so stupid?"

It would be great if we could infuse apathetic men and women today with Miss Caldwell's dynamic, up-by-the-bootstraps philosophy. But how can this be accomplished? The doctrine of self-reliance and the fable of the ant and the grasshopper have been with us for centuries, yet their meaning seems to go unheeded by a certain percentage of every generation.

Woman, 80, To Pilot Ship In Dunkirk Event

Ramsgate, England (UPI) —An 80-year old woman will be at the wheel of one ship of a flotilla which next week will commemorate the historic Dunkirk evacuation by "little ships" 25 years ago.

Mrs. Sylvia Lightoller will guide the motor yacht Sundowner back to Dunkirk where her late husband performed feats of heroism in 1940.

That was when 220,000 of the 338,226 men of the Allied army were evacuated from France in the face of advancing German forces.

Aided Royal Navy

The men were returned by a flotilla of little ships—motor boats, tug boats, small yachts and private pleasure craft—which went to the aid of the Royal Navy to evacuate the men to England to fight another day.

Mrs. Lightoller's husband, Cmdr. Charles Lightoller, was senior surviving officer of the liner Titanic which went down on its maiden trip from Southampton to New York in 1912 after hitting an iceberg with a loss of 1,503 passengers and crew.

Rescued Crew

Lightoller's small yacht took off 130 men from the beaches of Dunkirk, rescued the crew of a burning motor boat and dodged machine gun and bombing attacks.

He died in 1952.

The Sundowner will voyage again to Dunkirk next Saturday along with 50 other ships which took part in the original evacuation.

Buries Hatchet

Hollywood (UPI) — Paul Newman, who once feuded with Warner Bros. over his contract, returns to the studio to star in "The Moving Target."

Colorado Crude

Denver (UPI) — The amount of developable crude oil reserves in Colorado alone add up to almost half a trillion barrels, according to the Oil Shale Corporation, partner in a Colorado venture to build the nation's first full-sized commerical oil shale plant.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Writer Taylor Caldwell Urges Self-Reliance

By ROBERT PETERSON

This column isn't often privileged to hear from literary celebrities. But a letter arrived the other day from Taylor Caldwell, authoress of a string of best-selling novels, who said she liked my recent column calling for revival of interest in the fable of the ant and the grasshopper.

The ant, it will be recalled, worked and saved through the sunny days of spring and summer, while the grasshopper played and danced. When winter came the ant was snug in his warm home with a cellar full of goodies. But the grasshopper was out in the cold—hungry and broke.

Miss Caldwell, 64, is a great-grandmother who still works 12 to 18 hours a day. She lives in Buffalo, N.Y., with her husband, 76, who is her collaborator, editor and business manager. She writes:

"I often wonder what has happened to the American Character. Our nation offers such splendid opportunities. Yet so many people today seem appalled at the thought of hard work, and give no thought to thrift or the future. So many other complain that they lack advantages.

"My family was poor, yet I never thought myself underprivileged or deprived. I finished high school, got a job and enrolled for night courses in college. There were no scholarships, tuition was high and the pace of working all day and studying half the night was difficult. But I was glad to be living in a country where it was possible to work one's way through college. I didn't think of myself as a martyr but as a responsible young adult who had work to do, money to earn and a future to mold.

"When I was a young wife and mother, prices were comparatively just as high as they are now and wages were much lower. Yet somehow we always managed to save a dollar or two a week. It wasn't much but it was something, and it helped establish a habit for thrift.

"It's true I didn't have a car at first, or beautiful clothes, or the luxury of a hairdresser. We didn't take expensive trips and our entertainment consisted of a movie or two a year. We derived our joys from companionship and the hard work necessary in getting established.

"Sometimes today I meet old acquaintances who were dancing away their youthful years while I was going to night school. Many of these girls married fairly prosperous men but are now widows and reduced to living on Social Security. They often whine how hard life has treated them. But I tell them it didn't treat them as roughly as it treated me.

"I ask them brutally why they didn't acquire some employable skills, or why they didn't save their money when their husbands were making it instead of indulging assorted luxuries such as fine homes, clothes, jewels and vacations.

"Their usual response is that they were having such a good time that they never thought about the future. How can people be so stupid?"

It would be great if we could infuse apathetic men and women today with Miss Caldwell's dynamic, up-by-the-bootstraps philosophy. But how can this be accomplished? The doctrine of self-reliance and the fable of the ant and the grasshopper have been with us for centuries, yet their meaning seems to go unheeded by a certain percentage of every generation.

If you would like a booklet "Financing Your Coming Retirement" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c-o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Woman, 80, To Pilot Ship In Dunkirk Event

Ramsgate, England (UPI) —An 80-year old woman will be at the wheel of one ship of a flotilla which next week will commemorate the historic Dunkirk evacuation by "little ships" 25 years ago.

Mrs. Sylvia Lightoller will guide the motor yacht Sundowner back to Dunkirk where her late husband performed feats of heroism in 1940.

That was when 220,000 of the 338,226 men of the Allied army were evacuated from France in the face of advancing German forces.

Aided Royal Navy

The men were returned by a flotilla of little ships—motor boats, tug boats, small yachts and private pleasure craft—which went to the aid of the Royal Navy to evacuate the men to England to fight another day.

Mrs. Lightoller's husband, Cmdr. Charles Lightoller, was senior surviving officer of the liner Titanic which went down on its maiden trip from Southampton to New York in 1912 after hitting an iceberg with a loss of 1,503 passengers and crew.

Rescued Crew

Lightoller's small yacht took off 130 men from the beaches of Dunkirk, rescued the crew of a burning motor boat and dodged machine gun and bombing attacks.

He died in 1952.

The Sundowner will voyage again to Dunkirk next Saturday along with 50 other ships which took part in the original evacuation.

'West Point, Neb., Remembers WWII Hero Timmermann With Ballpark

West Point (AP)—It's been 20 years since he led the charge across the Rhine and 14 years since his death, but Karl Timmermann's home town hasn't forgotten him.

On a field that was once a watermelon patch and the target of youthful raids, West Point dedicated a baseball park to Timmermann in a Memorial Day ceremony Monday.

Karl's brother Fred, of Leavenworth, Kan., recalls that the Timmermann boys used to swim in the Elkhorn River just west of the field.

"We've been thinking about some kind of memorial for a long time," said VFW Commander Charles Moulton, who gave the dedicatory address.

'A Beautiful Place'

"This is a nice new ballpark for the younger kids. And it's a beautiful place." Teen-age baseball is a major sport here.

On the grassy centerfield beneath the scoreboard Monday were Moulton, Mayor John Soll, State Sen. William Hasebroock, and members of Timmermann's family. The high school band, in sparkling red and black uniforms, played.

Also on hand was Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., and an Army photo crew recording the ceremonies for a television show.

Heckler, a former Columbia and Princeton history professor, was the Army historian who recorded the events at Remagen, Germany, when U.S. Army troops poured across the Ludendorff Bridge, behind Lt. Timmermann and his infantry company.

Hechler has also written a book about the Remagen bridge.

In the late winter of 1945, the Germans had sought to halt the advancing allies at the Rhine by destroying the bridges across the river. But on March 7, 1945, Timmermann's company of infantry and tanks arrived at Remagen to find the bridge still standing.

Given the order to take the bridge despite the danger it would be blown up any minute, the young lieutenant shouted: "Let's go," and led his company across.

The crossing of the Rhine was the first by an invading army since Napoleon's in 1805. It was credited with being a turning point which shortened World War II.

Karl Timmermann, who once wrote his wife, La Vera, that "there is no glory in war," returned to civilian life in Fremont after the war as a salesman. But he re-enlisted in 1950 to take part in the Korean War, including the Ichon invasion in September of that year. Thirteen months later on Oct. 21, 1951, he died of cancer in an Army hospital in Denver.

Protection Against Polio Still Needed

After taking a three-year leave of absence, polio has proved it is still a threat to the lives of Nebraskans

The State Health Department Monday urged that Nebraskans recognize this fact, and take measures to protect themselves from the disease.

A Bayard child died and another became ill from polio earlier this month.

"This illustrates the urgent need for those who have not been immunized to see their doctor immediately," Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said.

Wild Virus

"This is especially true for children and young adults and persons traveling in relatively under-developed countries where they are still very likely to be exposed to wild polio virus."

Dr. Rogers said the Sabin Oral Sunday campaign held across the state in 1962 was "very successful," but that it undoubtedly didn't reach all Nebraskans.

"And, of course, people who have moved into the state and babies have been born since 1962," Dr. Rogers noted.

He said the Sabin oral vaccine "makes people as safe as you can possibly make them." The oral-type vaccine is designed to give lifetime protection, he added.

A Sabin oral immunization program has been set up through local arrangements in Morrill and Scotts Bluff Counties for June 6 as a precaution against further outbreaks.

May Start Program

Dr. Rogers said there were indications from Wyoming health officials that an immunization program might be started in western Wyoming to shield that state from the spead of the disease.

Dr. Rogers, noting the Sabin vaccine is usually inexpensive, said there was "no reason" for young Nebraskans and those who travel outside the United States not to receive the Sabin vaccine.

"And for those who can't afford it, generally speaking, all they have to do if they have a genuine need is to see their doctor or county health organization," Dr. Rogers said.

He added: "This experience proves that there is still polio in the world, and that by air we're less than a day away from any of those places."

Dr. Rogers said there was no reason why persons who received the older-type injection immunization could not now take the oral type. "There is no conflict," he said.

He noted that the injection-type vaccine needs occasional boosting, and that it does not prevent a person from becoming a carrier of the disease, even if he does not develop an active case of polio.

The Bayard girl who died May 13 of bulbar polio was Frances Golenda. She became ill May 9, five days after her family returned from a trip to Baja California, Mexico. Her 11-month-old cousin, Sammy Gonzales, also of Bayard, was hospitalized with the disease. He was released Friday.

History 'Poor'

The family's immunization history was "very poor," according to Dr. Rogers.

He said the Morrill and Scotts Bluff County immunization programs probably will include only oral doses for the type I virus which was discovered in the children.

Nebraska's last brush with the disease was in 1962, when nine cases were reported. The last polio death in the state was in 1961.

37 Nebraska Hospitals Hold Accreditation

Of Nebraska's 120 general hospitals, only 37 are accredited, according to reports of the Nebraska Hospital Association.

But another 44, which could be eligible for accreditation because they meet the 25-bed-or-more requirement, are showing an increased interest this year in receiving approval under national standards, the association said.

The 37 accredited institutions account for 4,854 of the state's total 7,900 general hospital beds. In the 44 other hospitals with 25 or more beds there are 2,329 beds.

There are 39 hospitals with fewer than 25 beds, the association said.

Nebraska hospitals currently accredited:

Alliance—St. Joseph's Hospital; Beatrice—Lutheran Hospital and Mennonite Deaconess Hospital; Broken Bow—Community Hospital; Central City—Litzenberg Memorial County Hospital; Columbus—Lutheran Hospital and St. Mary Hospital; Fremont—Dodge County Community Hospital; Grand Island—St. Francis Hospital; Hastings—Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital; Kearney—Good Samaritan Hospital.

Lexington—Lexington Community Hospital; Lincoln—Bryan Memorial, Lincoln General and St. Elizabeth Hospitals; Loup City—Sacred Heart Hospital; Nebraska City—St. Mary's Hospital; Neligh—Antelope Memorial Hospital; Norfolk — Lutheran Community Hospital and Our Lady of Lourdes; North Platte—Memorial and St. Mary Hospitals.

Omaha — Bishop Clarkson, Children's, Creighton, Doctors, Douglas County, Immanuel, Lutheran, and Nebraska Methodist Hospitals; O'Neill—St. Anthony's Hospital; Red Cloud—Webster County Community Hospital; Scottsbluff—St. Mary and West Nebraska General Hospitals; Sidney—Memorial Hospital; Superior — Broadstone Memorial Hospital; West Point—Memorial Hospital.

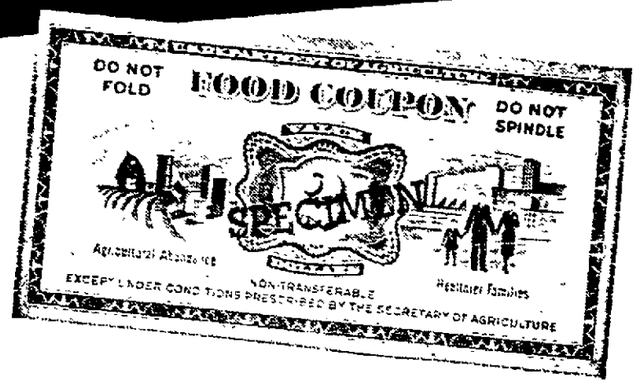
SAFEWAY CO-OPERATES WITH "U.S. FOOD STAMP PROGRAM"



–to help low income and welfare-aided familes buy more for a varied, more nutritious diet, with the convenience of normal shopping practice.

Today, June 1, the Federal Government's new Food Stamp Program went into effect in Lancaster County. This Program has two basic objectives:

1. Safeguarding the health of low-income families through better nutrition.
2. Increasing the flow of food from the farms through normal trade channels.

• ELIGIBLE FAMILIES

Food Stamp Coupons are issued to households determined by the Department of Public Welfare Office at 1320 N. Street in Lincoln.

• RECIPIENTS PAY FOR SOME FOOD STAMP COUPONS

The eligible families are required to buy some food stamp coupon The amount to buy is determined by the amount of money they could normally be expected to spend for foods included in the program. Then they are issued additional coupons to enable them to purchase more and better food.

• COUPONS

The coupons are in denominations of 50¢ and $2.00. They may be used at Safeway to purchase foods and food products for human consumption (not alcoholic beverages, tobacco, foods identified on the package as being imported, not to pay for deposit on bottles containing soft drinks, and not for any non-food item). The participant's food stamp identification must be presented when obtaining food stamps and when foods are purchased with the stamps.

• SAFEWAY WILL ISSUE CERTIFICATES OF CREDIT FOR CHANGE

Retailers are forbidden by U.S. Government to give change in CASH when purchases are made with food stamps coupons. Safeway will issue change with unendorsed foods stamp coupons of 50¢ or more and with Certificates of Credit in amounts up to and including 49¢. These Certificates of Credit may be used by the recipient family for future purchases at Safeway in Lincoln.

• YOU'LL ENJOY SHOPPING WITH FOOD STAMP COUPONS AT SAFEWAY

We will gladly explain the operation of the new Food Stamp Program and assist you in shopping for foods with the coupons. At Safeway, the same high quality foods, the same low prices, and the same service is given for coupons as for cash. Gold Bond Stamps are given free on purchases made with Food Stamp Coupons, too!

Protection Against Polio Still Needed

After taking a three-year leave of absence, polio has proved it is still a threat to the lives of Nebraskans.

The State Health Department Monday urged that Nebraskans recognize this fact, and take measures to protect themselves from the disease.

A Bayard child died and another became ill from polio earlier this month.

"This illustrates the urgent need for those who have not been immunized to see their doctor immediately," Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said.

Wild Virus

"This is especially true for children and young adults and persons traveling in relatively under-developed countries where they are still very likely to be exposed to wild polio virus."

Dr. Rogers said the Sabin Oral Sunday campaign held across the state in 1962 was "very successful," but that it undoubtedly didn't reach all Nebraskans.

"And, of course, people who have moved into the state and babies have been born since 1962," Dr. Rogers noted.

He said the Sabin oral vaccine "makes people as safe as you can possibly make them." The oral-type vaccine is designed to give lifetime protection, he added.

A Sabin oral immunization program has been set up through local arrangements in Morrill and Scotts Bluff Counties for June 6 as a precaution against further outbreaks.

May Start Program

Dr. Rogers said there were indications from Wyoming health officials that an immunization program might be started in western Wyoming to shield that state from the spead of the disease.

Dr. Rogers, noting the Sabin vaccine is usually inexpensive, said there was "no reason" for young Nebraskans and those who travel outside the United States not to receive the Sabin vaccine.

"And for those who can't afford it, generally speaking, all they have to do if they have a genuine need is to see their doctor or county health organization," Dr. Rogers said.

He added: "This experience proves that there is still polio in the world, and that by air we're less than a day away from any of those places."

Dr. Rogers said there was no reason why persons who received the older-type injection immunization could not now take the oral type. "There is no conflict," he said.

He noted that the injection-type vaccine needs occasional boosting, and that it does not prevent a person from becoming a carrier of the disease, even if he does not develop an active case of polio.

The Bayard girl who died May 13 of bulbar polio was Frances Golenda. She became ill May 9, five days after her family returned from a trip to Baja California, Mexico. Her 11-month-old cousin, Sammy Gonzales, also of Bayard, was hospitalized with the disease. He was released Friday.

History 'Poor'

The family's immunization history was "very poor," according to Dr. Rogers.

He said the Morrill and Scotts Bluff County immunization programs probably will include only oral doses for the type I virus which was discovered in the children.

Nebraska's last brush with the disease was in 1962, when nine cases were reported. The last polio death in the state was in 1961.

37 Nebraska Hospitals Hold Accreditation

Of Nebraska's 120 general hospitals, only 37 are accredited, according to reports of the Nebraska Hospital Association.

But another 44, which could be eligible for accreditation because they meet the 25-bed-or-more requirement, are showing an increased interest this year in receiving approval under national standards, the association said.

The 37 accredited institutions account for 4,854 of the state's total 7,900 general hospital beds. In the 44 other hospitals with 25 or more beds there are 2,329 beds.

There are 39 hospitals with fewer than 25 beds, the association said.

Nebraska hospitals currently accredited:

Alliance—St. Joseph's Hospital; Beatrice—Lutheran Hospital and Mennonitte Deaconess Hospital; Broken Bow—Community Hospital; Central City—Litzenberg Memorial County Hospital; Columbus—Lutheran Hospital and St. Mary Hospital; Fremont—Dodge County Community Hospital; Grand Island—St. Francis Hospital; Hastings—Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital; Kearney—Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington—Lexington Community Hospital; Lincoln—Bryan Memorial, Lincoln General and St. Elizabeth Hospitals; Loup City—Sacred Heart Hospital; Nebraska City—St. Mary's Hospital; Neligh—Antelope Memorial Hospital; Norfolk — Lutheran Community Hospital and Our Lady of Lourdes; North Platte—Memorial and St. Mary Hospitals.

Omaha — Bishop Clarkson, Children's, Creighton, Doctors, Douglas County, Immanuel, Lutheran, and Nebraska Methodist Hospitals; O'Neill—St. Anthony's Hospital; Red Cloud—Webster County Community Hospital; Scottsbluff—St. Mary and West Nebraska General Hospitals; Sidney—Memorial Hospital; Superior — Broadstone Memorial Hospital; West Point—Memorial Hospital.

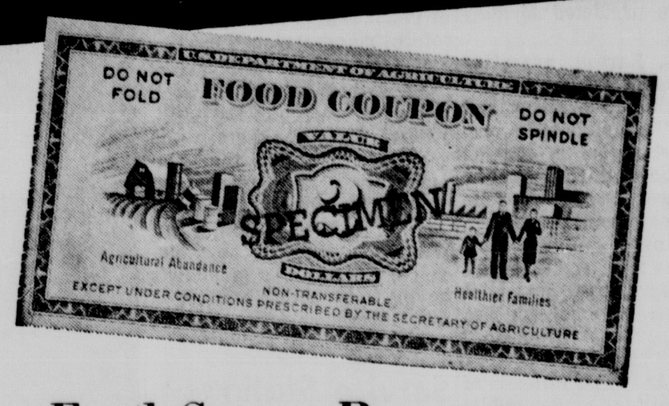
SAFEWAY CO-OPERATES WITH "U.S. FOOD STAMP PROGRAM"



–to help low income and welfare-aided familes buy more for a varied, more nutritious diet, with the convenience of normal shopping practice.

Today, June 1, the Federal Government's new Food Stamp Program went into effect in Lancaster County. This Program has two basic objectives:

1. Safeguarding the health of low-income families through better nutrition.
2. Increasing the flow of food from the farms through normal trade channels.

• ELIGIBLE FAMILIES

Food Stamp Coupons are issued to households determined by the Department of Public Welfare Office at 1320 N. Street in Lincoln.

• RECIPIENTS PAY FOR SOME FOOD STAMP COUPONS

The eligible families are required to buy some food stamp coupon The amount to buy is determined by the amount of money they could normally be expected to spend for foods included in the program. Then they are issued additional coupons to enable them to purchase more and better food.

• COUPONS

The coupons are in denominations of 50¢ and $2.00. They may be used at Safeway to purchase foods and food products for human consumption (not alcoholic beverages, tobacco, foods identified on the package as being imported, not to pay for deposit on bottles containing soft drinks, and not for any non-food item). The participant's food stamp identification must be presented when obtaining food stamps and when foods are purchased with the stamps.

• SAFEWAY WILL ISSUE CERTIFICATES OF CREDIT FOR CHANGE

Retailers are forbidden by U.S. Government to give change in CASH when purchases are made with food stamps coupons. Safeway will issue change with unendorsed foods stamp coupons of 50¢ or more and with Certificates of Credit in amounts up to and including 49¢. These Certificates of Credit may be used by the recipient family for future purchases at Safeway in Lincoln.

• YOU'LL ENJOY SHOPPING WITH FOOD STAMP COUPONS AT SAFEWAY

We will gladly explain the operation of the new Food Stamp Program and assist you in shopping for foods with the coupons. At Safeway, the same high quality foods, the same low prices, and the same service is given for coupons as for cash. Gold Bond Stamps are given free on purchases made with Food Stamp Coupons, too!

Panel Warns Union Shop Ban Needed

. . . 'REPEAL TO BRING DISPUTES'

Washington (AP)—If Congress wipes out laws that ban the union shop it will bring a "new wave of controversy and bitter labor disputes" in the 19 states that have such laws, the National Right-To-Work Committee predicted Monday night.

Reed E. Larson, executive vice president of the committee, described as "phony and fallacious" arguments by proponents of repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law that this would promote peace and eliminate conflict.

"Government statistics show that states with right-to-work laws suffer less industrial strife than do those states which sanction compulsory unionism," he said.

Larson and other officials of his committee made public statements prepared for submission to the House labor subcommittee Thursday. That group is considering repeal of Section 14B which permits states to ban contracts requiring union membership of employes.

Backing Larson, S.D. Cadwallader, president of his committee, recalled his experiences in railroad unions for 23 years, and contended:

"The entire attitude of union officials toward the rank and file employe changes the moment membership becomes compulsory. Union officials no longer worry about the wishes of the rank and file."

Cadawallader said the laws banning union shop agreements provides "the only protection that the employe has from exploitation by dictatorial union bosses and by a disinterested employer."

The witnesses took special issue with testimony a week ago by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz that there is "no substantial basis" to the argument that the union shop agreement violates the freedom of individual employes. Wirtz said there is no violation of freedom in a minority's having to accept "a majority's fair judgement fairly arrived at."

Service Stations Hit By Burglars; $230 Is Taken

Burglars hit a number of service stations in the Lincoln area early Monday morning, police said.

At least four stations reported evidence of forced entry and property damage from the break-ins. About $230 in cash and merchandise was taken from the four stations.

Carl's Standard Service, at 25th and O, had about $70 worth of merchandise taken and minor property damage. Harvey's Texaco Service Station, 44th and O, and the 60th and Havelock Standard Service Station both reported minor damage and nothing taken.

Heaviest hit by the burglars was Johnson's Conoco Station, 33rd and Adams, where about $170 in cash, checks and credit cards was taken and about $30 in property damage was done by the burglars in breaking down a metal door to gain entrance.

McDonald, Abel Steel Feud Over

Pittsburgh (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America will formally close the books on a bitter power struggle Tuesday when I.W. Abel is sworn in as the union's third president.

Abel, 56, will take the oath for a four-year term at ceremonies marking the biggest changeover of top leaders in the union's 23-year history.

The steelworkers said that George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, are expected to attend.

Eleven new district directors (there are 29 altogether), plus a new secretary-treasurer and vice president, will take office along with Abel, gnarled veteran of early organizing days whose election Feb. 9 ended the 12-year rule of David J. McDonald.

Abel, union secretary-treasurer for the past 12 years, was declared winner of the election April 30 after months of rumor and doubt. Union tellers said he polled a 10,142-vote majority of the more than 600,000 votes cast.

The bitter Abel-McDonald campaign and the election twice interrupted basic steel contract talks, now in abeyance pending Abel's assumption of command. They're expected to be in full swing by mid-June.

McDonald, who conceded defeat only two weeks ago after indicating for months that he would fight it, steps out of a $50,000-a-year job into retirement on a pension of half that.

Act NOW!

OR PAY AN EXTRA 10% ON YOUR TELEPHONE BILL PERMANENTLY!

Enacted 22 years ago as a "temporary" wartime measure, the telephone excise tax becomes a permanent part of this nation's tax structure unless it is eliminated by Congress this year. Otherwise you will pay an extra 10c on every $1.00 you spend for telephone service.

So this is it. This is your last chance to protest this tax to your Congressman. Ask for its repeal now, before Congress votes on excise taxes this spring. Remember, YOU pay the telephone tax. Your telephone company merely collects it for the federal government. Therefore, its removal would be a direct benefit to you, the telephone user.

Spend 10 minutes writing your Congressman today to SAVE 10 per cent on every telephone dollar in the future.

The Management of the bank set these new banking hours and reached the decision to close Saturdays after a complete survey of other cities and a study of the situation in Lincoln. Now we will serve our customers 46½ hours a week with deposit and check cashing service. The survey of banks closing on Saturdays indicated customers appreciated the increase in banking hours and yet retail trade did not decrease because the banks were closed. By staying open on minor holidays and shopping nights, we feel we will conform more closely to the normal business hours of the community. Some of the factors taken into account in making our decision to close on Saturdays were:

- The Federal Reserve Bank and all financial markets and centers are closed.
- In Lincoln, most of the home office insurance companies and professional offices are closed.
- Federal, State, County and City offices are closed.
- Although we have been open only 2½ hours on Saturdays, it means a full work day for our bookkeeping and accounting departments.
- With the new longer weekday hours our customers will be more efficiently served.
- Our employees can now work a 5 day week. Our personnel department has had difficulty competing for clerical help when other similar businesses have a 5 day week.
- Nationwide, all banks in cities the size of Lincoln are closed on Saturday. In Nebraska the banks in Omaha, Beatrice, Kearney, Holdrege, McCook and many smaller cities are closed all day Saturday.

80 Negro Tenant Farmers Walk Out

Leland, Miss. (UPI)—About 80 Negro tenant farmers — men, women and children — walked off their jobs on a delta cotton plantation Monday protesting long hours and low pay.

A spokesman for the group said tractor drivers on the plantation earned $6 a day working from sunrise to sundown, and field hands received $3 a day for chopping cotton.

The farm hands identified their employer as A. L. Andrews who operates a 1,300-acre plantation near the Tribbett community a few miles from here.

Andrews, a former Leland school teacher, confirmed there was a walkout at the plantation but declined further comment. He said the plantation was jointly owned with his brother W. B. Andrews.

A spokesman for the farmhands said the walkout stemmed from meetings of the "Mississippi Freedom Labor Union," a newly-organized civil rights organization. The group was formed a few weeks ago and leaders have said its purpose was to seek better working conditions and higher wages for Negro farm laborers.

The walkout involved 12 tractor drivers and about 70 field hands, many of them women and children.

The spokesman for the group said the workers were asking a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour. Most of the workers have been living in tenant houses on the plantation, some for as long as 10 to 15 years.

WAR DEAD HONORED IN CITY RITES

The Veterans of Foreign Wars youth band marches into Wyuka Cemetery as Lincoln paused to honor its war dead Monday. Sunrise services were held at the Iwo Jima monument in Lincoln Memorial Park, sponsored by VFW posts 131, 3606 and 8009. Wreaths were placed by VFW posts at each Lincoln cemetery. A parade down O to Wyuka, a talk by University of Nebraska Naval Science Prof. Capt. A. C. Mullen, a Veterans Circle program including an honor roll call, firing squad salute, the playing of taps by the American Legion and a National Guard flyover concluded Lincoln's official observance of Memorial Day. (Star Photo.)

"A Dab a Day, Keeps the Gray Away"

Amazing Hair Cream Tones Down Grayness. Hair Looks Young Again

If the years have stolen the natural color and oils from your hair, leaving it gray, streaked, dry, drab, faded, or yellowish; simply use Herbold Pomade as your hair dressing. It will blend in lasting color just right for your hair, but will not change its shade; only brighten it.

As grayness gradually disappears, your hair becomes lustrous and young looking again. The improvement is so real, so subtle and gradual, no one can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing.

Not a coal tar dye, but a special rich hair cream that keeps the gray away by replacing lost color and oils, so vital to young, healthy looking well-groomed hair. For Men and Women—$1.25, $2 and $3. PLUS TAX

First Rail Service

Moscow (UPI) — The first direct rail service between Moscow and Stockholm began, the Tass news agency said. A similar service also will be inaugurated from Moscow to Oslo. The Moscow-to-Stockholm train takes just over 50 hours with a number of stops along the way.

"A Dab a Day, Keeps the Gray Away"

Amazing Hair Cream Tones Down Grayness. Hair Looks Young Again

If the years have stolen the natural color and oils from your hair, leaving it gray, streaked, dry, drab, faded, or yellowish; simply use Herbold Pomade as your hair dressing. It will blend in lasting color just right for your hair, but will not change its shade; only brighten it.

As grayness gradually disappears, your hair becomes lustrous and young looking again. The improvement is so real, so subtle and gradual, no one can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing.

Not a coal tar dye, but a special rich hair cream that keeps the gray away by replacing lost color and oils, so vital to young, healthy looking well-groomed hair. For Men and Women—$1.25, $2 and $3. PLUS TAX

Herbold Pomade

Cream or Liquid
Use Creamy Pomade to condition dry hair.
Liquid Pomade for normal hair. Both tone down gray hair.

Southern Baptists Plan To Proselyte In Cities

Dallas (AP) — One Southern Baptist leader said Monday the denomination, with deep roots in rural America, plans to shift its evangelical emphasis to cities, while another called for a crusade against what he termed the nation's "general moral decay."

They spoke as the messengers (delegates) to the massive Southern Baptist convention held preliminary sessions before the main gathering begins Tuesday night.

The call for an attack on crime and social problems came from the Rev. Arthur B. Rutledge of Atlanta, head of the Baptist home mission ary [illegible] he spoke before the Woman's Missionary Union.

Crime Increase

"Crime is increasing five times faster than the population," said the Rev. Dr. Rutledge, who directs 2,200 missionaries in America.

"Pornography has become a $500 million business. Drink and divorce continue at distressingly high levels. A revolution in race relations breeds tensions and violence. Minority peoples stand in need of a faith with moral and spiritual dynamics."

He said the Baptist convention, largest non-Catholic denomination in America, must step into all areas of social problems and human struggle.

The Rev. Fred B. Moseley, assistant to Rutledge, said the swing is toward concentration of effort in highly populated areas.

He said these areas are the metropolitan complexes along the 500-mile stretch from Boston to Washington, the Great Lakes area, the Florida Gold Coast, Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast and Southern California.

"These great cities dominate American culture," said the Rev. Dr. Moseley. "They set the patterns for the nation's economic, social, political and even religious life."

Assassins Sentenced

Tehran, Iran (UPI) — A military appeal court sentenced Mohammed Bokharai and five accomplices to death for the assassination last January of Iranian Premier Hassan Ali Mansur. Four other persons implicated in the plot were sentenced to life imprisonment and three others drew prison terms ranging from 5 to 15 years.

ALCOA, STEELWORKERS AGREE TO NEW CONTRACT

Alcoa, Tenn. (AP) — Aluminum Co. of America and United Steelworkers union announced jointly Monday negotiators in New York have reached agreement on a new three-year contract.

The present contract between Alcoa and the USW was to expire Monday night at midnight and there had been talk of a strike unless a new pact was arranged.

Details of the new agreement will be announced later.

The contract talks affect, among others, 5,000 union employes of Alcoa here.

In New York, a spokesman for the union said the midnight strike deadline was still in effect against four other aluminum producers — Kaiser, Reynolds, Ormet and Olin-Mathieson — and talks were continuing with those firms.

Alcoa, the largest producer, usually sets wage patterns in the industry.

Machinist Union Pickets In Rocket Plant Strike

Azusa, Calif. (AP)—AFL-CIO machinists union members picketed Aerojet-General Corp.'s rocket-engine and torpedo plant in a light rain Monday after going on strike at 12:01 a.m.

Union members at the firm's Sacramento plant authorized Sunday a walkout at the same hour Tuesday.

Because of the holiday, with only a few maintenance workers due to report, effects of the strike here were not immediately apparent. A half dozen or so pickets marched at each of the three plant's three gates, carrying placards. Supervisory employes performed maintenance tasks.

A federal mediator said he was continuing separate talks with union and management.

The company issued a call for employes to come to work at their regular hours Tuesday. The plant operates around the clock.

Union officials estimated 1,500 would be on strike here and 4,000 at Sacramento. They said the firm's facilities at the Nevada atomic test site and the Todd Shipyards in Los Angeles would be picketed, but not Cape Kennedy.

The Azusa plant's vice president and manager, William L. Rogers, said three-year contracts rejected by members offered an additional 51 cents an hour, including an 8-cent hourly wage increase each year.

JORDANIAN POSITIONS KILL TWO IN ISRAELI SECTOR

Jerusalem, Israeli sector (AP)—Jordanian positions fired on the Israeli sector of Jerusalem Monday, killing two persons and wounding four others, an Israeli spokesman said Monday night.

The dead were a 25-year-old carpenter at the Roman Catholic Notre Dame convent and a 14-year-old girl. The official said the gunfire also wounded two nuns and two elderly women.

An Israeli army spokesman said the Jordanians opened fire with automatic weapons at 2:50 p.m. local time on the Musrara quarter of the Israeli sector of the divided city.

In Amman, a Jordanian military spokesman charged that Israeli forces crossed into the no man's-land between the two sectors and exchanged fire with Jordanian troops. He said three Israelis were injured in the 15-minute exchange. No Jordanian casualties were reported.

Later Israeli authorities lodged a protest of the shooting.

Witnesses said rifle and automatic weapons fire crackled along several hundred yards of the northwestern part of the wall from west of the Jaffa gate to the Notre Dame convent area.

Traffic in nearby areas of the Israeli sector was diverted.

Political circles in the Israeli sector said they assumed the shooting was in reaction to Israel's three-pronged raid Thursday night into Jordanian territory.

Poll Shows Solons Opposed To Appeal

. . . OF REMAP RULING

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
The Associated Press

A polling of state senators revealed Monday that a majority oppose appealing the federal court panel ruling that the Legislature's initial 1965 reapportionment effort is unconstitutional.

Twenty-eight lawmakers said they object to carrying the case to the United States Supreme Court. Instead, they said, the Legislature should proceed swiftly to draw up a new reapportionment plan that would comply with the mandate of the three-judge federal panel.

Only 13 of the 44 senators questioned said they wanted an appeal.

Favor Crossing

The poll also showed that 34 senators favor crossing county lines were necessary in realigning legislative district boundaries despite the opinion of the state justice department that crossing county lines violates the Nebraska constitution.

"Nebraska should settle her own problems," said Omaha Sen. Pat Moulton in explaining why he opposes an appeal.

"An appeal, even if expeditiously determined, would cause utter turmoil," said Lincoln Sen. Marvin E. Stromer. "I am sure the supreme court would politely, but firmly, uphold the federal tribunal."

Next Year

Stromer learned in a telephone conversation with Associate Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas that the high court probably could not hand down an opinion on a Nebraska reapportionment appeal until late January or early February.

Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel said an appeal "will simply mean senators will have to run at large in 1966." He said that by the time a decision on the appeal would be handed down, the 1966 election machinery would be so far advanced that electing by districts would be impossible.

Sen. H. C. Crandall of Curtis said the Legislature should do everything necessary to comply with the directive of the federal panel. "I can't think of anything that would be worse then running at large," he said.

Didn't Comply

The panel of judges in a 2-1 decision May 12 ruled the reapportionment bill, LB628, passed earlier this session did not comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" edict. The panel threatened to force an at-large election of legislators in 1966 unless proper reapportionment was accomplished during this session.

Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer, in a special address before lawmakers five days after the decision was issued, recommended an appeal. But he also suggested a cooling-off period.

A notice of appeal has been filed with the federal district court should lawmakers decide that is the course they wish to pursue.

Possibility

Senators who favor appealing the panel ruling say there's the possibility the ruling would be reversed or thd Supreme Court would issue further guidelines for legislators to follow in drawing up a new reapportionment plan.

"We need a greater sense of direction," said Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte, who has on file a motion to appeal the ruling. "As it is now, we have no assurance that any new reapportionment bill that we pass would be held valid. This is till too much of a guessing game."

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine, chairman of a special legislative reapportionment committee formed after the May 12 ruling, said "the chances are quite good" an appeal would result in reversal of the federal panel's ruling. "Even if we lost," he said, "we'd be in better shape to properly reapportion."

Caught In Bind

In his special address to senators, Meyer said that in legislative reapportionment, Nebraska is caught between the federal court directive and the limitations of her own constitution.

Meyer has long held that Nebraska's constitution does not permit crossing county lines in drawing up legislative districts. However, he noted there was "an unmistakable directive" in the federal court order that county lines be crossed.

The Associated Press poll indicated a strong majority of senators—a total of 34, desire to cross county lines, and many feel it can be done constitutionally.

Or Reduce

The federal panel said that lawmakers would either have to cross county lines in drawing up new districts or reduce the size of the legislature to less than 40 members if a constitutional reapportionment plan is to be devised.

"We simply can't reduce our membership" said Beatrice Sen. Fred Carstens. "The work-load is to great. I'm afraid crossing county lines is the only solution."

"The doctrine of national supremecy was settled long ago," said Sen. Marvel. "The federal court implied that we should cross county lines, and I think we should follow that implication."

No Reason

Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen, Jr., and attorney, said he studied the constitutional questions involved and found no reason why the legislature should fear crossing county lines.

Eleven senators said they would not support a reapportionment plan in which county lines were crossed, although some of them admitted such a plan may be the only solution.

"I don't think the people want their counties cut up," said Sen. Ira Paine of Grand Island.

Nun Sheds Habit For 'New Type Service'

St. Louis, Mo. (UPI)—After 47 years as a nun, Sister Francetta Barberis has hung her habit in the closet and started keeping beauty shop appointments

And starting Thursday she's switching jobs — from president of Webster College in Webster Groves, Mo., to coordinator in President Johnson's Job Corps.

Instead of living in a convent, she'll keep house in a Washington, D.C., apartment. She will travel about the country helping to set up Job Corps centers in big cities where young women of from 16 to 21 can be trained to become skilled workers, housewives, and responsible citizens.

At 64, Sister Francetta is still very much a nun. She is entering the world and wearing the world's clothing with the special permission of the head of her order, Sister Mary Luke Tobin, superior general of the Sisters of Loretto.

"I didn't intend for this to happen," Sister Francetta told a reporter last week as she prepared to leave the Webster campus. "I wasn't aware that it would. But now I'm glad it did. Some good may come of it."

"Mine is a service order which makes it especially appropriate to engage in a new type of service in the antipoverty program," she said. "I want to keep at it as long as I feel fit for the work."

There was one catch. The administrators of the Job Corps felt that an executive in a nun's habit could not be fully effective. Sister Francetta was asked to change into street clothes.

"Having to change my garb was a natural outcome of the work I was going to do," she said. "The kind of clothes a person wears doesn't mean a whole lot.

"It makes no difference whether a person wears the religious habit or the clothes of a layman. A person makes it as a human being."

Nun Sheds Habit For 'New Type Service'

St. Louis, Mo. (UPI)—After 47 years as a nun, Sister Francetta Barberis has hung her habit in the closet and started keeping beauty shop appointments.

And starting Thursday she's switching jobs — from president of Webster College in Webster Groves, Mo., to coordinator in President Johnson's Job Corps.

Instead of living in a convent, she'll keep house in a Washington, D.C., apartment. She will travel about the country helping to set up Job Corps centers in big cities where young women of from 16 to 21 can be trained to become skilled workers, housewives, and responsible citizens.

At 64, Sister Francetta is still very much a nun. She is entering the world and wearing the world's clothing with the special permission of the head of her order, Sister Mary Luke Tobin, superior general of the Sisters of Loretto.

"I didn't intend for this to happen," Sister Francetta told a reporter last week as she prepared to leave the Webster campus. "I wasn't aware that it would. But now I'm glad it did. Some good may come of it."

"Mine is a service order which makes it especially appropriate to engage in a new type of service in the antipoverty program," she said. "I want to keep at it as long as I feel fit for the work."

Segregation Ban Could Take Funds

FROM DIXIE HOSPITALS

Washington (UPI)—Backed by the 1964 civil rights act, the federal government is starting to roll with a massive effort to make sure that Southern hospitals and welfare programs are free of segregation.

At stake are millions of dollars in federal grants. Localities risk losing the money if the government decides they are using it discriminately.

Southern school districts already have been given two years—until the fall of 1967—to desegregate completely or face withdrawal of federal school aid funds. Many have indicated quietly they will fall in line.

Now Optimistic

Federal officials were optimistic that the hospital and welfare plan would be easier than the emotion-charged issue of school desegregation.

Federal spending programs are formidable, with $3 billion a year in welfare grants alone going to the states to provide at least half of their welfare expenditures. Some Southern states get 80% of their welfare budgets from Washington.

There also is the Hill-Burton program, which provides up to two-thirds of most hospital construction costs. The government already has spent more than $2 billion on building new health facilities. The current annual budget is $220 million.

The compliance program, follows federal money wherever it goes. It also reaches into medical, dental and nursing schools and vocational rehabilitation programs.

In the hospital, welfare and education fields, states must submit detailed statements to the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) showing how they will assure there is no discrimination in administering federal funds. HEW officials review the affidavits and must accept them before any more funds can be committed to the states.

In addition, every hospital or welfare agency receiving federal money must submit a statement assuring that it is not segregated.

Despite the implications of desegregtaing Southern hospials, where Negroes mostly have been treated in segregated rooms by segregated staffs, the Public Health Service's compliance division does not expect any great difficulty in knocking down racial barriers.

Expected Action

Robert Nash, the division chief, said in an interview that Southern hospitals have expected for a long time that they would have to desegregate. He said many of them have done so voluntarily.

The Public Health Service (PHS), has received more than 100 complaints from civil rights organizations charging that Southern hospitals are discriminating against Negroes. Although all of the complaints are being investigated, only two of the hospitals have been cleared by federal investigators.

For 10 years, hospitals receiving Hill-Burton funds have been required to admit all patients on a nondiscriminatory basis. And two years ago the Supreme Curt ruled in a case involving a Greensboro, N.C., hospital that Hill-Burton facilities must be completely desegregated.

WIVES
entertain husbands at party

It wasn't even 'Father's Day'—but the men in their lives were honored guests when the members of the Junior Woman's Club entertained their husbands at a party. The affair was a dinner dance at the LAFB Officers Club, and the committee in charge of arrangements included Mrs. Richard Sullivan, chairman; Mrs. Gil Deitemeyer, Mrs. Don Leising, Mrs. Robin Loerch, Mrs. Joe Kinney and Mrs. Charles Wenz.

ATTENDANTS

Revealing plans this morning for her June wedding is Miss Ginger Van Horn, who will become the bride of George F. Isaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Isaman, on Saturday, June 19.

The soon-to-be bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Van Horn, has chosen her sister, Miss Georgia Van Horn, as her honor attendant. Her bridesmatrons will be Mrs. Daniel McCown of Pittsburgh, Pa., and her fiance's sister, Mrs. Arthur Sharp.

Miss Carolyn Sharp will attend Miss Van Horn as flower girl, and lighting the candles for the 8 o'clock ceremony, to be solemnized at Redeemer Lutheran Church, will be Scott Coatsworth and William Hempel, III.

Arthur Sharp will serve his brother-in-law as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Rich Revis of Omaha; Larry Catlett, Des Moines; Charles Decker, James Lanning and William Fowles.

On Wednesday evening, the bride-elect will be honored at a kitchen shower for which Mrs. Paul Geistlinger will be hostess at her home to friends of the honoree and their mothers.

Miss Van Horn will be presented a personal shower on Sunday, June 6, when her aunt, Mrs. C. F. Bowers, will be hostess at her home.

What They're Reading

This week two interesting items arose as the search through bookland was made in an effort to find out what is happening of interest to readers.

The teenagers might find the first discovery to be of particular interest, because it concerns one of the "Beatles." That writing member of the "Beatles"—John Lennon—has been writing again and in July, "A Spaniard in the Works," will be released to the public. His first, "In His Own Write," had sales of something like 180,000 copies

But we leave the London writer for Paris and more book news. This time Le Figaro Litteraire is recognized for his efforts. Mr. Litteraire is not writing his own complete novel but rather, and just as important, he has been publishing excerpts of the translations of Ernest Hemmingway's last novel—"Across the River and Into the Trees"

Back in the United States and to the best-seller list we see that another of Caldwell's novels has made the honored list. "A Pillar of Iron," stands in the number nine position this week under fiction. For other new developments let's take a look at the latest best-seller standings.

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

Declarer finds in many hands that it is far more dangerous for him to have one opponent on lead than the other. This is usually because the dangerous opponent, by obtaining the lead, can either run a long suit against him, or else can return a suit which jeopardizes a key card in declarer's or dummy's hand.

For example, in this deal, South should be concerned from the start with the danger that East may obtain the lead and return a spade through the king. Such a lead could prove fatal, and declarer's attention should therefore be riveted firmly on all possible ways and means of preventing East from taking the lead

In line with this, declarer plays low from dummy on the club lead, as well as low from his own hand. He should not put up the queen, first, because it is unlikely that West has the king, and second, assuming that East does have the king, that covering the jack with the queen would almost surely establish a club entry for East after he covered the queen with the king.

Let's say that West continues with a low club, South taking the king with the ace. Pursuing his aim of keeping East out of the lead, declarer draws two rounds of trumps and then returns a low diamond from dummy, playing the ten on East's eight.

The policy of avoidance now pays off because West, on lead with the queen of diamonds, can do South no harm, and, in fact, unless he cashes the ace of spades at this point, he winds up losing it.

South does not do anything really remarkable by playing this way; he merely displays a healthy respect for East by refusing to engage him in combat. He knows that East has him outgunned—if he obtains the lead—and South is perfectly willing to openly acknowledge this by adopting a highly prudent course.

Memorial

The members of the Wa-Di-Ta-Ka Camp Fire Girls will hold a special meeting Wednesday at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Earl Wood.

The program will commemorate the birthday anniversary of the late President John F. Kennedy, and the girls will contribute a portion of their treasury to the John F. Kennedy swimming pool at Whitehall.

NEWS of the suburban areas

Now that we have reached the month of June, it might be somewhat frightening to note that half the year is nearly past.

But, taking a look at the news of this morning and also taking a look at the past five months, we doubt that families are worrying too much about how the time was spent.

Reaching the year's half-way mark just means that now everyone will begin anticipating the fun the second half has in store. For this morning's social news let's begin with the activities in South Hills

SOUTH HILLS

The luncheon on Brower Road is the talk in the South Hills area, this morning. The mid-day event will be in farewell courtesy to Mrs. Norman Jensen who will be moving from the area shortly. Serving as hostess at her home today will be Mrs. Dale Stephens who has Mrs LeRoy Larson, Mrs. David Barager Mrs Donald Bomberger and Mrs. Darrell Grell as cohostesses. The social get-together will be attended by 20 guests, all neighborhood friends of the honoree. The informal afternoon will be spent on Mrs. Stephen's patio.

CLIFFORD PLACE

Another party to mention, but in a different area. This time we must go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzwater to gather the exciting news which took place a week ago Saturday. Mrs. Fitzwater entertained a guests sixsome at an evening party in honor of Mr. Fitzwater's birthday. The group devoted the evening to Reno Keno—and prizes were awarded to the lucky winners. As for the guests—they were Maj. and Mrs. Robert Mahan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atess and Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Anderson

KESSLER HEIGHTS

So, what's all the excitement in Kessler Heights and where? At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miland Hanquist, of course, and it's all on account of the recent arrival of guests. It was just last Friday when Mr. and Mrs. Hanquist were anxiously awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Hanquist's brother and sister-in-law, Lt. Cdr. Ernest H. Gliem, U.S.M., Mrs. Gliem, and their family. Cdr. and Mrs. Gliem, who formerly resided in Korea, have three sons Jerry, Jimmy and Scott. The family plans a two-week visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hanquist. When the two weeks are up the fivesome will grab belongings and set the wheels in motion as they head for their new home in California.

EASTBOROUGH

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hendrickson, who've come from Poplar Bluffs, Mo., to reside at 231 Prestwick Rd.

Alumna Honored

At the annual commencement exercises of Midland College, Fremont, on Sunday, May 30, Mrs. William H. Hasebroock of West Point, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was presented an honorary Doctor of Humanities Degree

An alumna of Midland College, Mrs Hasebroock delivered the commencement address entitled, "Stand Out or Stand Still."

The recipient of Ak-Sar-Ben's 1950 Good Neighbor Award, Mrs. Hasebroock has been active in many civic affairs throughout the state. She served as the first state chairman of Civil Defense, and was appointed by Nebraska governors to the Crippled Children's Committee, State Safety Council and the National Conference for Christians and Jews. Vice chairman of the U.S. Savings Bonds program in Nebraska, she is a lay-delegate to the American Cancer Society.

She is a former national president of the Association of Parliamentarians and past president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I cheated a little on my income tax and I haven't been able to sleep nights. What should I do?

CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: Send the Department of Internal Revenue a check for $100. And if you still can't sleep nights, send them the balance.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My sister asked me to write this to you. I just gave her a few facts of life. She fell into the "we-are-going-to-get-married-anyway-so-why-wait?" trap. I used to use the same line myself, but never on a "nice" girl. I told my sister that when a guy can get a girl without marrying her, he loses respect for her, and he certainly doesn't want a wife he can't respect. After a guy gets to a girl, this is what she represents to him, and every time he sees her, that's all he thinks of. When I saw what was taking place with my sister, I gave her the malepoint of view. She's a smart girl so she broke off with the bum. She had a few bad months, but now she's going with a decent guy and is doing a good job of building her self-respect. If girls would only remember they aren't married until after the ceremony, and that lots can happen before that!

I can forgive a girl for making one mistake when she is young. But if she repeats it, it's HER fault because she should know better. So, Abby, please, print this for young girls who don't have brothers to tell them what I just told my sister.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I've always been taught never to use anybody else's comb or brush and not to let anyone use mine. We have even been told this in health class at school. But some girls still ask to use my comb. Some of the kids have dandruff and don't always keep their hair clean. I don't know how to say no without hurting people's feelings and giving them the idea that I am "stuck-up. What should I do? Please print this as it might help others with the same problem.

UNWILLING COMB-LENDER

DEAR UNWILLING: Go to the dime store and buy a comb. Keep yours neatly tucked away for your personal use and when a borrower asks for your comb, give her the loaner.

HEIRLOOM BREAD

4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup currants
2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
4 eggs
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups canned apple sauce
2-3 cup chopped nuts

Combine and sift dry ingredients. Cream sugar and shortening until fluffy. Beat in eggs, flavorings and apple sauce. Add liquid mixture to dry mixture and blend until smooth. Stir in nuts and currants. Turn into 2 greased 9"x5"x3" loaf pans or into fancy 1 quart mold and 2 smaller loaf pans. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 55 to 60 minutes or until bread tests done. Cool at least 4 hours before slicing. Makes 2 loaves.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I cheated a little on my income tax and I haven't been able to sleep nights. What should I do?

CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: Send the Department of Internal Revenue a check for $100. And if you still can't sleep nights, send them the balance.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My sister asked me to write this to you. I just gave her a few facts of life. She fell into the "we-are-going-to-get-married-anyway-so-why-wait?" trap. I used to use the same line myself, but never on a "nice" girl. I told my sister that when a guy can get a girl without marrying her, he loses respect for her, and he certainly doesn't want a wife he can't respect. After a guy gets to a girl, this is what she represents to him, and every time he sees her, that's all he thinks of. When I saw what was taking place with my sister, I gave her the malepoint of view. She's a smart girl so she broke off with the bum. She had a few bad months, but now she's going with a decent guy and is doing a good job of building her self-respect. If girls would only remember they aren't married until after the ceremony, and that lots can happen before that!

I can forgive a girl for making one mistake when she is young. But if she repeats it, it's HER fault because she should know better. So, Abby, please, print this for young girls who don't have brothers to tell them what I just told my sister.

DEAR ABBY: I've always been taught never to use anybody else's comb or brush and not to let anyone use mine. We have even been told this in health class at school. But some girls still ask to use my comb. Some of the kids have dandruff and don't always keep their hair clean. I don't know how to say no without hurting people's feelings and giving them the idea that I am "stuck-up. What should I do? Please print this as it might help others with the same problem.

UNWILLING COMB-LENDER

DEAR UNWILLING: Go to the dime store and buy a comb. Keep yours neatly tucked away for your personal use and when a borrower asks for your comb, give her the loaner.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Illegal Balls Now Legal?

Shot Cox, area representative for Titleist golf balls, one of three companies that was hit by a recent United States Golf Association ruling claims the illegal balls are and always were legal.

The USGA ruled that two brands of Titleist, two brands of Spalding Dot and one Golfcraft ball failed to meet specifications in the velocity test. The USGA said the five balls traveled at more than the limit of 250 feet per second according to their testing machine.

The ruling hit just before last week's U.S. Open local qualifying and affected all 10 golfers playing in the Lincoln tourney.

"We flew Joe Dey (USGA executive director) to our main plant and had him check the balls on ou own testing machine," Cox says. "We then discovered that the USGA apparatus was not operating properly and that the balls met the required specifications."

However, no word has been received from the USGA regarding the matter.

Quoting Astleford On Golf, Cigars

Nebraska amateur champion Bob Astleford was explaining why his team had failed to be among the leaders in a recent pro-am event.

"First of all my partners start playing motor on the green," he explained. "You know, putt-putt-putt-putt. then on the next hole, they all decided to go fishing in the creek."

Speaking of some of his troubles in the local qualifying for the U.S. Open at the Lincoln Country Club, Astleford blamed it on the absence of the familiar cigars.

"I guess I just can't keep my head down without the cigars," he observed. "The doctor is going to have to be a little understanding or I'll wind up a nervous wreck if I keep playing golf."

The Omaha amateur pulled a couple of cigars out of his bag en route to earning a second straight berth in the U.S. Open sectional to be held in Denver next Monday.

Caddies Only For Winners

Lew Sheary, the former Nebraska Wesleyan athlete from Waverly who is now a teaching pro at Omaha Miracle Hills, apparently caddies only for winners.

In three caddy appearances at local U.S. Open qualifying, Sheary has been in the winner's corner all three times—twice for Dean Wilson Jr. and once for Astleford.

One disgruntled golfer who had just battled through 18 holes with the trees at the Omaha Field Club approached cl o Max Crouch and asked, "Is it true that Pat Corrig glas County sheriff) uses your course for a sobriety iat' do you mean" inquired Crouch. "By making them drive a car down your fairways without hitting any of the trees," the golfer replied.

Cheaper T i Win Ticket

One mediocre fight fan, in trying to decide whether to spend $3.50 to see the closed circuit telecast of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship at Pershing Auditorium, reasoned:

"Well, if I went to the race track, I'd spend two dollars for a win ticket and this fight will last longer than a horse race."

It did, but just barely.

Nebraska's two top pitchers off the runner-up team in the Big Eight baseball race will play for the coach whose team knocked them out of the championship in the final game.

Both Stan Bahnsen and Bob Hergenrader will pitch for Kansas coach Floyd Temple's team at Valentine in the Basin League this summer.

Clark Wins Indianapolis '500' In Record Speed Of 150.686

...Transmission Foils Foyt

TINGELSTAD HITS WALL . . . A wheel flies off Bud Tingelstad's racer as it slams into a wall on the northwest turn.

Indianapolis (AP) — Jimmy Clark, a shy lad outside a race car, gave Scotland its first Memorial Day 500-mile race victory Monday with a record-cracking run in a hybrid English-American auto.

Only A. J. Foyt of Houston, twice winner of the half-million-dollar grind, gave Clark much competition—and his transmission failed after he had led 10 of the early laps around 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Clark's 150.686 miles per hour average broke Foyt's year-old record of 147.35.

Foyt was able to stay in front of Clark only one lap while the Scot was on the track and led the other nine when Clark made one of his two quick stops for fuel.

"A bit of determination," Clark said of his victory, first at Indianapolis for a foreigner since Italian Dario Resta won in 1916 in a French Peugeot.

Clark, a bachelor farmer from Duns, Scotland, finished second in his first shot at the 500 two years ago and led last year until his left rear wheel collapsed.

He hinted that he might not attempt the Indianapolis grind again. He commented that "we have a lot of racing to do between now and then" and said he would think about it.

Clark has made it clear that he prefers road racing, at which he was world champion in 1963 and No.2 last year.

But whether he likes the closed courses or not, he has no superior on the old Speedway. Nobody doubted that after his Monday victory.

He did it in style, coming in waving a black-gloved hand above the cockpit of his car, about five miles ahead of i 3 inner Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif.

Jones coasted over the finish line out of fuel.

The esult reversed the 1963 finish, when Jones edged Clark while the Lotus owner, Colin Chapman of Londo i, was demanding that Jones be disqualified for leaking oil.

Clark's car was the first foreign chassis to win since Wilbur Shaw's 1940 victory in an Italian Maserati, but the Scot's car was powered by a special Ford engine.

Italian-born Mario Andretti, now of Nazareth, Pa., led a brilliant field of rookies with a third-place finish in an all-American Brawner Ford.

The race was free of serious accidents and injuries—as contrasted to last year's tragic holocaust which took the lives of drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald. But there was a heavy toll of cars in the race, witnessed by a crowd of more than 220,000.

Andretti was followed by Al Miller, Standish, Mich., fourth in a Loutus Ford; Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., fifth in a Ford; rookie Mickey Rupp, Mansfield, Ohio, sixth in a Gerhardt Offy; Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., seventh in a Watson-Ford.

Then came 45-year-old Walt Hansgen, Bedminster, N.J., eighth in a Huffaker Offenhauser; rookie Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ninth in a Lola-Ford, and Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, 10th in an old Offy roadster.

The only other car still running at the finish in the machinery-wrecking race was a Vollstedt Ford driven by Len Sutton of Portland, Ore.

Both Jones and Andretti broke Foyt's 1964 record of 147.35 m.p.h. Jones averaged 149.2 and Andretti 149.121.

The 11 finishers were one fewer than last year, but seven cars in the 1964 field were eliminated in the explosive second-lap crash which killed Sachs and MacDonald.

There was only one wreck of consequence. Bud Tinglestad of Dayton, Ohio, hit the wall with his Lola Ford a little past the midway point but climbed out unhurt.

Clark led 190 of the 200 laps and won $28,500 in lap prizes alone, $150 for each one he led. Foyt led the other 10.

The full amount of the purse and its division will not be known until the victory dinner Tuesday night. It amounted to more than $500,000 last year.

The finish also will be unofficial until after an all-night check of the timers' tapes—but it's highly unlikely that officials can find any other winner than the quiet Scotsman.

The tire troubles of the preliminaries obviously had been solved. Firestone, which has had its product on the winner every year since 1919, did it again. But Goodyear, returning to the line-up for the first time since 1922, put tires on the cars of Branson and Al Un r

There was engine trouble all over the track, although not so bad as in 1951 when only eight cars were running at the finish.

Of 17 rear-engine Fords that started, eight were running at the end and only one of five Lotus Fords-Foyt's-fell out.

Of 10 rear-engine Offys in the field, only one was still going when Clark took the checkered flag.

Only four of the old-time Offy roadsters started but Eddie Johnson and rookie Johncock nursed two of them home.

Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., trying to come back after being critically burned in a Milwaukee race last summer, lasted less than one lap—but only because his Novi roadster developed transmission trouble. The other Novi-powered starter, a four-wheel-drive English Ferguson driven by Bobby Unser, Al's older brother, also went out early with mechanical difficulties.

So, again the 700-horsepower Novi monster failed to win after repeated attempts since 1941.

'A Bit Of Determination' Helps Clark Win At Indy

. . . JIMMY NOT SURE HE'LL BE BACK

Indianapolis (AP) — Jimmy Clark, the gentleman farmer from Duns, Scotland, reaped racing's richest prize at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday.

The curly-haired Scot, still reclining in his Lotus-Ford in Victory Lane after winning the annual 500-mile classic, attributed his record win to "a bit of determination."

Clark, a 29-year-old bachelor, gulped from a bottle of milk as his triumphant crew swarmed around him.

He flashed a grimy smile as he stood up to face the battery of photographers. The attractive wife of car owner Colin Chapman hugged the flower-bedecked winner.

Blonde Suzanne Devine, 500 Festival Queen, stepped beside the still-hot car to present Clark the traditional victory kiss. Instead, the shy Scotsman shook her hand.

But the photographers shouted, "Kiss the girl, kiss the girl."

Clark obliged and then did a retake.

The former world's driving champion became the first foreigner in nearly half a century to win the Memorial Day classic and the first to pilot a rear-engine car into Victory Lane.

"The race was as smooth as any race can be," said Clark. "Everything we did was on schedule."

His only complaint? "My wrists are sore — that's all."

"Isn't it marvelous?" asked Chapman. "I think we can look forward to see Lotus-Fords on the U.S. Auto Club circuit much of this season."

Clark climbed into the official pace car with Chapman and Speedway owner Tony Hulman, the flowered wreath of victory around his neck.

He hugged the huge winner's trophy and waved to cheering race fans as he was driven over the 2-mile oval on his victory ride.

Later, he said there would be a lot of celebrating in Duns, and in the Lotus factory in England.

"There are an awful lot of people who aren't with us here who have worked very hard and they will be celebrating tonight, too," said Clark. "I'd like to thank them all."

Asked if he would be back for the 500 next year, Clark said, "We have a lot of racing to do until then and we'll think about it."

Pirate String Extended As Phillies Fall By 5-2

By Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored five runs in the fifth inning — two on Don Clendenon's triple — and trimmed Philadelphia 5-2 Sunday, running their winning string to 11 games, high in the majors this year.

The streak is the longest in the National League since the Los Angeles Dodgers won 13 straight in 1962.

San Francisco extended its victory string to five, defeating St. Louis 4-1 on the two-hit pitching of Gaylord Perry.

Minnesota split a doubleheader with Baltimore, losing the nightcap 5-4 on Sam Bowens' ninth inning homer after winning 6-0 behind Jim Kaat's five-hitter, and retained a one-half game lead in the American League.

The second-place Chicago White Sox also divided a twin bill, beating Cleveland 4-3 on Don Buford's 10th inning homer but bowing 4-3 in the second game on a ninth-inning throwing error by pitcher Bruce Howard.

The Detroit Tigers, who had lost five straight doubleheaders, welcomed back Manager Chuck Dressen with a 5-1 second-game victory over the New York Yankees. The Yankees won the opener 3-1 behind Whitey Ford.

With Manager Gil Hodges confined to his room due to a virus and coach Rube Walker in command, the Washington Senators swept Kansas City 5-2 and 5-1.

Dean Chance broke his four-game losing streak with relief help from Bob Lee as the Los Angeles Angels took the first game of a doubleheader from Boston 5-3. The Red Sox rebounded 3-0 in the second game behind the combined three-hit pitching of Dennis Bennett and Dick Radatz.

The New York Mets trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-2 in the opener of a twin bill on Jack Fisher's three-hitter and a three-run homer by Jim Hickman. The nightcap, tied 3-3 after nine innings, was halted at that point because of darkness.

Cincinnati salvaged the second half of a doubleheader at Los Angeles, whipping the Dodgers 6-1 on Joey Jay's three-hitter. Maury Wills' fourth hit, a bases-loaded single in the ninth, gave the Dodgers a 4-3 victory in the opener.

8 Records Fall, Another Tied In Federation Junior Division

. . . SPRINTS HOLD SPOTLIGHT

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Cozad—A fine crop of young athletes gave the record book a thorough revamping in the annual Mid-States Federation Track and Field Championships here Monday.

Taking the spotlight in the cinder carnival at Haymaker Stadium were the competitors in the Junior Division as they set eight new records, tied a ninth and another disallowed because of a prevailing wind.

Competition in the sprints highlighted the evening session. Grant's Bill Daiss, two-time winner of the Nebraska Class C 100-yard dash, whipped Terry Holbrook, the Kansas Class B champion, and Nebraska's Class B king Ken Beatty of Sutherland as he turned in a 9.8 clocking in the 100. Holbrook was clocked at 9.9 and Beatty at 10 flat.

Holbrook gained revenge in the 220 and 440. He nipped Daiss by a tenth of a second as he sped to a record breaking 22.1 in the 220 and outlegged Nebraska Class B 440 champ John Eckhout of Amherst with a 49.5 mark in the 440. Eckhout was a stride back at 49.6.

Winner of the outstanding award in the Junior Class, however, was another lad running for the Kansas Comets, Ken Gaines. Gaines won the hurdles in 14.7, the broad jump 22-7¾, the high jump at 6-2¼ and also scored points for the Comets in the triple jump and mile relay.

State pole vault champion Randy Reeves left a talented field behind as he cleared 13-8. Second was Ogallala's Rick Bush at 13-0.

The top athlete in the women's Division was Donna Guggenmos a fifteen year old lass from Brewster who set the only record in the women's division with a 1:03.9 440.

National junior college champion Ed Mooney of Scottsbluff was a double winner and added over fifteen feet to the old discus record. Mooney, headed for the University of Nebraska next year, sailed the discus 173-11 and won the shot put at 54-3. The shot mark was eight inches shorter than his record throw in 1964. Mooney was named top athlete in Collegiate Division for his performance.

Nebraska Freshman Steve Krebs of Diller lost his record in the Junior Division to Ken Gaines, but put his name back in the record book in the collegiate class as he cleared 6-4½.

Victor Brooks, former Nebraska competitor, stretched the broad jump record to 24-5, and Cornhusker vaulter Ron Fecht of Gothenburg raised the pole vault mark to 14-1.

Some of the top competition in the Junior Division came in the discus and shot put events, but neither record was broken. Wilber's Rob Ahlschwede turned the tables on state Class C champion Bob Repp of Tecumseh with a throw of 162-6. Repp was five inches back. Only Creighton Prep's Sam Buda had better than 160 feet previously in 1965.

Imperial's Mike McNair, representing the Southwestern Nebraska Track Club edged Tom Harger a 1964 Fairbury graduate, by two inches in the shot put, throwing 55-6½. Broken Bow's Rick Still and Burwell's Carl Ashman were also over 54 feet.

The Nebraska Freshman were handy winners in the Collegiate Division, showing strong punch in the hurdles with Dave Kudron, Lon Sherlock and Dave Bates leading the way.

Illegal Balls Now Legal?

Shot Cox, area representative for Titleist golf balls, one of three companies that was hit by a recent United States Golf Association ruling claims the illegal balls are and always were legal.

The USGA ruled that two brands of Titleist, two brands of Spalding Dot and one Golfcraft ball failed to meet specifications in the velocity test. The USGA said the five balls traveled at more than the limit of 250 feet per second according to their testing machine.

The ruling hit just before last week's U.S. Open local qualifying and affected all 10 golfers playing in the Lincoln tourney.

"We flew Joe Dey (USGA executive director) to our main plant and had him check the balls on our own testing machine," Cox says. "We then discovered that the USGA apparatus was not operating properly and that the balls met the required specifications."

However, no word has been received from the USGA regarding the matter.

Quoting Astleford On Golf, Cigars

Nebraska amateur champion Bob Astleford was explaining why his team had failed to be among the leaders in a recent pro-am event.

"First of all my partners start playing motor on the green," he explained. "You know, putt-putt-putt-putt. then on the next hole, they all decided to go fishing in the creek."

Speaking of some of his troubles in the local qualifying for the U.S. Open at the Lincoln Country Club, Astleford blamed it on the absence of the familiar cigars.

"I guess I just can't keep my head down without the cigars," he observed. "The doctor is going to have to be a little understanding or I'll wind up a nervous wreck if I keep playing golf."

The Omaha amateur pulled a couple of cigars out of his bag en route to earning a second straight berth in the U.S. Open sectional to be held in Denver next Monday.

Caddies Only For Winners

Lew Sheary, the former Nebraska Wesleyan athlete from Waverly who is now a teaching pro at Omaha Miracle Hills, apparently caddies only for winners.

In three caddy appearances at local U.S. Open qualifying, Sheary has been in the winner's corner all three times—twice for Dean Wilson Jr. and once for Astleford.

One disgruntled golfer who had just battled through 18 holes with the trees at the Omaha Field Club approached club pro Max Crouch and asked, "Is it true that Pat Corrigan (Douglas County sheriff) uses your course for a sobriety t[illegible]

"What' do you mean" inquired Crouch. "By making them drive a car down your fairways without hitting any of the trees," the golfer replied.

Cheaper Than Win Ticket

One mediocre fight fan, in trying to decide whether to spend $3.50 to see the closed circuit telecast of the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship at Pershing Auditorium, reasoned:

"Well, if I went to the race track, I'd spend two dollars for a win ticket and this fight will last longer than a horse race."

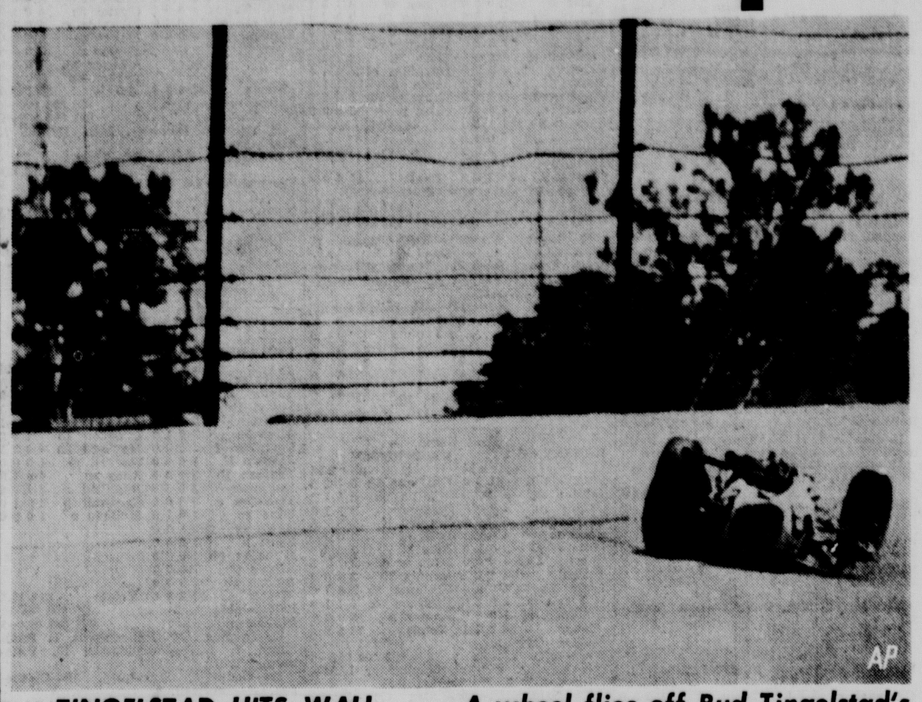
It did, but just barely.

Nebraska's two top pitchers off the runner-up team in the Big Eight baseball race will play for the coach whose team knocked them out of the championship in the final game.

Both Stan Bahnsen and Bob Hergenrader will pitch for Kansas coach Floyd Temple's team at Valentine in the Basin League this summer.

Clark Wins Indianapolis '500' In Record Speed Of 150.686

...Transmission Foils Foyt



TINGELSTAD HITS WALL . . . A wheel flies off Bud Tingelstad's racer as it slams into a wall on the northwest turn.

Indianapolis (AP) — Jimmy Clark, a shy lad outside a race car, gave Scotland its first Memorial Day 500-mile race victory Monday with a record-cracking run in a hybrid English-American auto.

Only A. J. Foyt of Houston, twice winner of the half-million-dollar grind, gave Clark much competition—and his transmission failed after he had led 10 of the early laps around 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Clark's 150.686 miles per hour average broke Foyt's year-old record of 147.35.

Foyt was able to stay in front of Clark only one lap while the Scot was on the track and led the other nine when Clark made one of his two quick stops for fuel.

"A bit of determination," Clark said of his victory, first at Indianapolis for a foreigner since Italian Dario Resta won in 1916 in a French Peugeot.

Clark, a bachelor farmer from Duns, Scotland, finished second in his first shot at the 500 two years ago and led last year until his left rear wheel collapsed.

He hinted that he might not attempt the Indianapolis grind again. He commented that "we have a lot of racing to do between now and then" and said he would think about it.

Clark has made it clear that he prefers road racing, at which he was world champion in 1963 and No.2 last year.

But whether he likes the closed courses or not, he has no superior on the old Speedway. Nobody doubted that after his Monday victory.

He did it in style, coming in waving a black-gloved hand above the cockpit of his car, about five miles ahead of runner Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif.

Jones coasted over the finish line out of fuel.

The result reversed the 1963 finish, when Jones edged Clark while the Lotus owner, Colin Chapman of London, was demanding that Jones be disqualified for leaking oil.

Clark's car was the first foreign chassis to win since Wilbur Shaw's 1940 victory in an Italian Maserati, but the Scot's car was powered by a special Ford engine.

Italian-born Mario Andretti, now of Nazareth, Pa., led a brilliant field of rookies with a third-place finish in an all-American Brawner Ford.

The race was free of serious accidents and injuries—as contrasted to last year's tragic holocaust which took the lives of drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald. But there was a heavy toll of cars in the race, witnessed by a crowd of more than 220,000.

Andretti was followed by Al Miller, Standish, Mich., fourth in a Loutus Ford; Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., fifth in a Ford; rookie Mickey Rupp, Mansfield, Ohio, sixth in a Gerhardt Offy; Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., seventh in a Watson-Ford.

Then came 45-year-old Walt Hansgen, Bedminster, N.J., eighth in a Huffaker Offenhauser; rookie Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ninth in a Lola-Ford, and Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, 10th in an old Offy roadster.

The only other car still running at the finish in the machinery-wrecking race was a Vollstedt Ford driven by Len Sutton of Portland, Ore.

Both Jones and Andretti broke Foyt's 1964 record of 147.35 m.p.h. Jones averaged 149.2 and Andretti 149.121.

The 11 finishers were one fewer than last year, but seven cars in the 1964 field were eliminated in the explosive second-lap crash which killed Sachs and MacDonald.

There was only one wreck of consequence. Bud Tinglestad of Dayton, Ohio, hit the wall with his Lola Ford a little past the midway point but climbed out unhurt.

The Detroit Tigers, who had lost five straight doubleheaders, welcomed back Manager Chuck Dressen with a 5-1 second-game victory over the New York Yankees. The Yankees won the opener 3-1 behind Whitey Ford.

With Manager Gil Hodges confined to his room due to a virus and coach Rube Walker in command, the Washington Senators swept Kansas City 5-2 and 5-1.

Dean Chance broke his four-game losing streak with relief help from Bob Lee as the Los Angeles Angels took the first game of a doubleheader from Boston 5-3. The Red Sox rebounded 3-0 in the second game behind the combined three-hit pitching of Dennis Bennett and Dick Radatz.

The New York Mets trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-2 in the opener of a twin bill on Jack Fisher's three-hitter and a three-run homer by Jim Hickman. The nightcap, tied 3-3 after nine innings, was halted at that point because of darnkess.

Cincinnati salvaged the second half of a doubleheader at Los Angeles, whipping the Dodgers 6-1 on Joey Jay's three-hitter. Maury Wills' fourth hit, a bases-loaded single in the ninth, gave the Dodgers a 4-3 victory in the opener.

8 Records Fall, Another Tied In Federation Junior Division

. . . SPRINTS HOLD SPOTLIGHT

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Cozad—A fine crop of young athletes gave the record book a thorough revamping in the annual Mid-States Federation Track and Field Championships here Monday.

Taking the spotlight in the cinder carnival at Haymaker Stadium were the competitors in the Junior Division as they set eight new records, tied a ninth and another disallowed because of a prevailing wind.

Competition in the sprints highlighted the evening session. Grant's Bill Daiss, two-time winner of the Nebraska Class C 100-yard dash, whipped Terry Holbrook, the Kansas Class B champion, and Nebraska's Class B king Ken Beatty of Sutherland as he turned in a 9.8 clocking in the 100. Holbrook was clocked at 9.9 and Beatty at 10 flat.

Holbrook gained revenge in the 220 and 440. He nipped Daiss by a tenth of a second as he sped to a record breaking 22.1 in the 220 and outlegged Nebraska Class B 440 champ John Eckhout of Amherst with a 49.5 mark in the 440. Eckhout was a stride back at 49.6.

Winner of the outstanding award in the Junior Class, however, was another lad running for the Kansas Comets, Ken Gaines. Gaines won the hurdles in 14.7, the broad jump 22-7¾, the high jump at 6-2¼ and also scored points for the Comets in the triple jump and mile relay.

State pole vault champion Randy Reeves left a talented field behind as he cleared 13-8. Second was Ogallala's Rick Bush at 13-0.

The top athlete in the women's Division was Donna Guggenmos a fifteen year old lass from Brewster who set the only record in the women's division with a 1:03.9 440.

National junior college champion Ed Mooney of Scottsbluff was a double winner and added over fifteen feet to the old discus record. Mooney, headed for the University of Nebraska next year, sailed the discus 173-11 and won the shot put at 54-3. The shot mark was eight inches shorter than his record throw in 1964. Mooney was named top athlete in Collegiate Division for his performance.

Nebraska Freshman Steve Krebs of Diller lost his record in the Junior Division to Ken Gaines, but put his name back in the record book in the collegiate class as he cleared 6-4½.

Victor Brooks, former Nebraska competitor, stretched the broad jump record to 24-5, and Cornhusker vaulter Ron Fecht of Gothenburg raised the pole vault mark to 14-1.

Some of the top competition in the Junior Division came in the discus and shot put events, but neither record was broken. Wilber's Rob Ahlschwede turned the tables on state Class C champion Bob Repp of Tecumseh with a throw of 162-6. Repp was five inches back. Only Creighton Prep's Sam Buda had better than 160 feet previously in 1965.

Imperial's Mike McNair, representing the Southwestern Nebraska Track Club edged Tom Harger a 1964 Fairbury graduate, by two inches in the shot put, throwing 55-6½. Broken Bow's Rick Still and Burwell's Carl Ashman were also over 54 feet.

The Nebraska Freshman were handy winners in the Collegiate Division, showing strong punch in the hurdles with Dave Kudron, Lon Sherlock and Dave Bates leading the way.

Morgue d'Algue Captures French Amateur Tourney

Paris (AP) — Gaetan Morgue d'Algue won his second French amateur golf championship Monday by defeating Robert Nouel 8 and 7 in the 36-hole final between the two Frenchmen.

Morgue d'Algue, who also won the title in 1962, was 4-up after the morning 18 and 7-up after 27 holes.

In the finals of the women's amateur championship, Brigitte Varangeot, who sharpened her game with a tour of the U.S. women's circuit last year, defeated Catherine Lacoste, daughter of one-time French tennis star Rene Lacoste, 1-up at the 39th hole.

3 Nebraskans Hit Over .300

Three Nebraskans with Stan Bahnsen's .353 leading, hit better than .300 for the 1965 baseball season, according to final statistics released by the Nebraska Sports Information Office.

Randy Harris was the leading hitter among the regulars with .324 and Larry Bornschlegl hit .305.

Bahnsen's six wins against one loss and his 1.50 earned run average led the Husker pitchers.

Yastrzemski Gets Week Of Rest

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox announced Monday that left fielder Carl Yastrzemski will be rested for a week in an effort to cure his recurring back and leg ailments.

The decision was made by trainer Jack Fadden, who said Yastrzemski has been laboring trying to play and that rest is the only solution.

Gary Geiger opened in left field in Monday's doubleheader against the Los Angeles Angels in place of Yastrzemski, who had missed six games previously this season.

Yastrzemski, 1963 American League batting champion, is hitting .292 with seven homers and 25 runs batted in.

Come in and go for a test walk.

That's a Volkswagen Station Wagon, with an aisle like a real bus.

You can walk between the front two seats, past the middle seats, to the back seats.

Without stopping or opening doors.

And if you take trips with children, it makes a big difference. In fact, the longer the trip, the bigger the difference.

You'll be able to get to things you couldn't get to before.

Not only the kids, but anything else you happen to have along.

Even to the 16 pieces of luggage behind the back seat.

Our high roof makes it all possible. (Ordinary, low-roof wagons couldn't even consider an aisle, never mind a flock of people and 16 suitcases.)

Of course, to get an aisle you have to give up something.

Instead of the usual 9 seats, you get 7.

Only Volkswagen offers this optional minus at extra cost.

Morgue d'Algue Captures French Amateur Tourney

Paris (AP) — Gaetan Morgue d'Algue won his second French amateur golf championship Monday by defeating Robert Nouel 8 and 7 in the 36-hole final between the two Frenchmen.

Morgue d'Algue, who also won the title in 1962, was 4-up after the morning 18 and 7-up after 27 holes.

In the finals of the women's amateur championship, Brigitte Varangeot, who sharpened her game with a tour of the U.S. women's circuit last year, defeated Catherine Lacoste, daughter of one-time French tennis star Rene Lacoste, 1-up at the 39th hole.

Yastrzemski Gets Week Of Rest

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox announced Monday that left fielder Carl Yastrzemski will be rested for a week in an effort to cure his recurring back and leg ailments.

The decision was made by trainer Jack Fadden, who said Yastrzemski has been laboring trying to play and that rest is the only solution.

Gary Geiger opened in left field in Monday's doubleheader against the Los Angeles Angels in place of Yastrzemski, who had missed six games previously this season.

Yastrzemski, 1963 American League batting champion, is hitting .292 with seven homers and 25 runs batted in.

Come in and go for a test walk.

That's a Volkswagen Station Wagon, with an aisle like a real bus.

You can walk between the front two seats, past the middle seats, to the back seats.

Without stopping or opening doors.

And if you take trips with children, it makes a big difference. In fact, the longer the trip, the bigger the difference.

You'll be able to get to things you couldn't get to before.

Not only the kids, but anything else you happen to have along.

Even to the 16 pieces of luggage behind the back seat.

Our high roof makes it all possible. (Ordinary, low-roof wagons couldn't even consider an aisle, never mind a flock of people and 16 suitcases.)

Of course, to get an aisle you have to give up something.

Instead of the usual 9 seats, you get 7.

Only Volkswagen offers this optional minus at extra cost.

Funnels' Fury Known, Cause A Mystery

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Miss Peggy Speece, University of Nebraska journalism student, as an exercise in depth reporting.)

By PEGGY SPEECE

The woman stopped her raking job. Shading her eyes against the sparkling April sky, she looked over at the new turquoise bungalow that was her home.

"It was nearly a year ago," she said. "The tornado came from the southwest. We lost all of our buildings." Behind the little house stood the crippled trees, the only evidence of the storm of May 5, 1964, that cut a path 70 miles long and several hundred yards wide through southeastern Nebraska.

"The first thing was to get our fields planted," explained the woman, Mrs. Hermann Brackhan of rural York. "Then we built the house. And now we are still raking up pieces from the buildings."

This year new tornadoes have hit Nebraska, leaving death, destruction and more little pieces to be raked up. Where do they come from? What causes them? People, particularly tornado-conscious Midwesterners, have been wondering for decades.

Single tornadoes have been known to kill hundreds of people, destroy countless homes and strew wreckage over a wide area. The tornado which hit Dallas, Tex., April 2, 1957, left more than 200 homeless.

Tornadoes have occurred in every state in the Union except Hawaii, and in many foreign countries. But nowhere do they occur with such frequency and ferocity as in the Midwestern states along the Mississippi and Missouri River valleys.

Air Collides

This is the region where the warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico collides with cold, dry air from Canada and creates the extravaganza of nature called the tornado. Kansas is the most frequent producer of tornadoes—sometimes 200 or more a year are created within her borders.

Although the destruction of these storms is not hard to see or calculate, weather scientists are still baffled as to exactly what causes them. They know that the meeting of warm and cold air masses is where they occur, but just what combination of winds and temperatures ends up as a giant, cone-shaped vacuum sweeper is not known.

If scientists have a hard time figuring out what causes a tornado they have an even rougher time knowing about what actually goes on in the vortex — that lethal funnel that reaches down from the clouds.

Scientists have not been able to measure either the barometric pressure or the strength of the winds within the vortex. The fierce winds of the storm destroy any instruments that might be used. Estimates have been made that the winds range up to 700 miles per hour. However, tornadoes probably average around 200 miles per hour.

There have been accounts from people who have had the experience of looking up into the whirling vortex. Everyone noted a loud screaming noise and a gaseous smell. Unfortunately more people have been sucked up into the tornado than have seen it pass over their heads.

TORNADO . . . destroyed this farm.

Memory A Blank

Bill Troutman of Bradshaw, was one such person. He was found walking dazedly around the fields in back of his house after the May 5, 1964, storm. He was a mass of cuts and scratches. He had been sleeping on a living room couch when the storm struck, and had been spun around with broken glass, nails and splinters. Doctors thought that even though he had lived through the storm the infection might be too great for medicine to stop.

But Troutman fought off infection. However, a concussion had left his memory a blank, and when he was physically able, he was moved to a mental institution. He has since regained his memory, but the storm and the three weeks following are still a blank spot in his mind.

Nearly every Midwestern home has a basement, and every tornado-belt child learns to head for the southwest corner of the basement. This is because tornadoes generally follow a southwest-to-northeast pattern. If the house above blows away, the wreckage will be carried away from the southwest.

But how is a family forewarned of the imminent presence of a tornado?

Today, weather forecasters keep people informed via radio and television if prevailing conditions indicate that a tornado might be formed.

But the problem of warning people of the actual approach of a tornado remains acute. Pioneers watched for the weather signs and headed for the cellar until the killer winds had passed. Later, the telephone's party line worked well to alert communities. Fire sirens and school bells have sounded the warning.

Since World War II weathermen have put radar to work spotting tornadoes. The United States Weather Bureau is now in the process of installing large weather radar units at various points throughout the United States. There is one now at Kansas City which easily picks up signals from tornadoes throughout Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Can Be Ineffective

Once a tornado is detected, word is flashed to radio and television. But the tornado itself can render this system ineffective. Radio and television sets, other than those run by batteries, fail when twisters snap off power poles.

This was partly the case in York County's May 5, 1964, tornadoes. As a result, teenagers are no longer the only ones to be seen with tiny battery-powered transistor radios. In fact, the sight of a farmer carrying a transistor radio on his tractor may not be a sign of wealth. It can be a sign of prudence against one of nature's best known but least understood phenomena—the tornado.

But how is a family forewarned of the imminent presence of a tornado?

Today, weather forecasters keep people informed via radio and television if prevailing conditions indicate that a tornado might be formed.

But the problem of warning people of the actual approach of a tornado remains acute. Pioneers watched for the weather signs and headed for the cellar until the killer winds had passed. Later, the telephone's party line worked well to alert communities. Fire sirens and school bells have sounded the warning.

Since World War II weathermen have put radar to work spotting tornadoes. The United States Weather Bureau is now in the process of installing large weather radar units at various points throughout the United States. There is one now at Kansas City which easily picks up signals from tornadoes throughout Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Can Be Ineffective

Once a tornado is detected, word is flashed to radio and television. But the tornado itself can render this system ineffective. Radio and television sets, other than those run by batteries, fail when twisters snap off power poles.

This was partly the case in York County's May 5, 1964, tornadoes. As a result, teenagers are no longer the only ones to be seen with tiny battery-powered transistor radios. In fact, the sight of a farmer carrying a transistor radio on his tractor may not be a sign of wealth. It can be a sign of prudence against one of nature's best known but least understood phenomena—the tornado.

Good People's Silence Hurts Alabama

. . . KING MAKES TUSKEGEE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Tuskegee, Ala. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Monday that Alabama, in time of racial strife, "suffers not so much from the violence of bad people as from the silence of good people."

In the commencement address at Tuskegee Institute, King expressed belief Negroes ultimately will win their freedom in the United States, but he said much work remains to be done.

He urged the approximately 350 graduates of the predominantly Negro institution to work for the betterment of their people and not become complacent because they might be better off than some.

To Protest Arrests

Then King left for Selma to protest the arrest of civil rights demonstrators during picketing of downtown stores. There have been 132 arrests there over the weekend. The pickets have been urging a boycott of merchants they claim discriminate against Negroes.

Tuskegee Institute, located 40 miles east of Montgomery, conferred honorary degrees on King, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, along with a federal judge and a scientist.

Reuther, who recently contributed $50,000 in union funds to the civil rights movement, was awarded the doctor of laws degree for the "countless ways in which you have exemplified, vindicated and demonstrated democracy at its finest."

The other degrees went to District Judge Wade H. McCree of Michigan and Dr. Roy C. Newton, retired vice president of research for Swift and Co., Chicago.

King, clad in a black robe trimmed in crimson, cautioned the graduates against letting time "become an ally of the primitive forces of social stagnation."

Too many good people in Alabama, he said, are content to remain silent during the civil rights upheaval and try to convince themselves that "time will solve this problem. Let's cool off a while."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told the graduating class that "we must realize that the time is always right to do right."

In predicting ultimate freedom "because the goal of this nation is freedom," King recalled the oppression to which Negroes were subjected in the days of slavery in the United States. But they survived, he said, "and if slavery couldn't stump us the opposition we now face will certainly fail."

Despite the scientific achievements of mankind, King said, "we have not learned the simple art of living together in brotherhood."

"If we are to survive this deep and haunting problem," he continued, "our moral and spiritual lag must be eliminated."

Actually, he said, the world faces three separate but related problems—racial injustice, poverty and war.

Winston Churchill Tanker Launched

Newcastle-On-Tyne, England (AP) — A 90,000-ton supertanker named the Sir Winston Churchill was launched on the Tyne Monday for its Norwegian owner.

The tanker, biggest ever built in northeast England, was named by Mrs. Reginald Maudling, wife of the former conservative chancellor of the exchequer, and will be completed later this year. Total cost is over 3,250,000 pounds ($9.1 million).

The Sir Winston Churchill is being built for Hilmar Reksten of Bergen.

German Leader In U.S.

New York (UPI) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said Monday that German and European unity are the problems he hopes to concentrate on in his round of talks with President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Erhard, making his fourth trip to the United States since he succeeded Konrad Adenauer in October, 1963, flew from Bonn Monday for a five-day visit to New York and Washington which will be climaxed by his meeting with Johnson next Friday.

Reading a prepared statement to newsmen following his arrival at Kennedy Airport, Erhard said that "Germans and Americans feel and act in solidarity." He said he hoped the forthcoming talks with Johnson and Rusk will "add another tie to the friendship which exists between our two countries."

"Urgent decisions that are vital to the future of the Atlantic Alliance need to be discussed," he said. "Everyone who wants to establish lasting peace is concerned about German and European unity.

"I have come to this country as an ally, aware of our joint responsibility," he said. "The difficult problems facing America today affect all of us."

Party Criticizes State Policy Degrading Consumer Goods

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Communist Party accused state planning organizations Monday of treating consumer goods as a second-class industry

It demanded that the State Planning Committee (GOSPLAN) and the National Economic Council coordinate equipment delivery and labor allocation to consumer goods factories, speed investment and cut red tape.

The demand came in a front-page editorial in the party's official newspaper, Pravda. The fact that it singled out the two government commissions by name for criticism showed how seriously the Kremlin takes its campaign for more and better consumer goods.

This campaign has taken several forms—a delicate testing of the profit motive, tentative experiments with advertising, press criticism of ugly design, and increased investment in light industry, a field long starved by Soviet concentration on heavy goods and weapons.

But Pravda said Monday all this was too little and too late.

"Consumer goods output is increasing, the selection is ter," it said. "But the demand bigger and the quality bet- for goods is growing still faster."

Capitalism Taken Into Account By Students In Cuba

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Capitalism somehow crept onto the Communist Cuban scene in a Havana Radio announcement.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, told of a campaign by Cuban students to encourage workers and farmers to build savings accounts in the government-controlled bank of Cuba.

Jose Antonio Marti Castillo, head of the bank's savings department, said that maintaining the savings habit is the best way to make good revolutionaries in the new generation.

Father Egan, 69, died unexpectedly Sunday night in his quarters after attending Creighton's baccalaureate services.

He was the Jesuit counselor for Creighton's School of Dentistry.

Party Criticizes State Policy Degrading Consumer Goods

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Communist Party accused state planning organizations Monday of treating consumer goods as a second-class industry.

It demanded that the State Planning Committee (GOSPLAN) and the National Economic Council coordinate equipment delivery and labor allocation to consumer goods factories, speed investment and cut red tape.

The demand came in a front-page editorial in the party's official newspaper, Pravda. The fact that it singled out the two government commissions by name for criticism showed how seriously the Kremlin takes its campaign for more and better consumer goods.

This campaign has taken several forms—a delicate testing of the profit motive, tentative experiments with advertising, press criticism of ugly design, and increased investment in light industry, a field long starved by Soviet concentration on heavy goods and weapons.

But Pravda said Monday all this was too little and too late.

"Consumer goods output is increasing, the selection is ter," it said. "But the demand bigger and the quality bet-for goods is growing still faster."

Capitalism Taken Into Account By Students In Cuba

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Capitalism somehow crept onto the Communist Cuban scene in a Havana Radio announcement.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, told of a campaign by Cuban students to encourage workers and farmers to build savings accounts in the government-controlled bank of Cuba.

Jose Antonio Marti Castillo, head of the bank's savings department, said that maintaining the savings habit is the best way to make good revolutionaries in the new generation.

'You Name It; He Can Do It'

. . . WHITE AT FINE POINT

Houston, Tex. (AP)—"He is in tip-top shape. He could run the mile . . . fight a 10-round boxing match . . . swim 10 miles. You name it. He can do it."

Not an Olympic champion but astronaut Edward H. White II. And the man doing the bragging is one who should know—Dr. Charles Berry, chief physician for the nation's astronaut team.

White, a ruddy-complexioned Air Force major, could need all his physical fitness to take his stroll in space while attached to the end of a 25-foot tether. This is part of the reason for his razor-sharp physical condition.

Off The Cuff

In an off-the-cuff medical experiment during the four-day space flight scheduled Thursday for White and command pilot James A. McDivitt, Berry thought it would be helpful to know if a man in peak physical condition could withstand the rigors of space travel better than a man who had not emphasized physical fitness as extensively.

McDivitt is in better shape physically than many football players, but White is a shade above his astronaut partner.

White is known to his buddies as a "physical condition buff," the same affectionate way John Glenn was known to his space pals.

The 34-year-old White keeps in shape running long distances and supplements the many miles he runs with weight lifting, squash, handball, exercises, and water skiing, but mostly it is running.

Berry says White is to the fine point a boxer or track star attains before a championship performance.

If He Feels Better

If White comes out of the long, grueling flight feeling better than McDivitt, astronauts may be required to put more time into physical training than is required now.

All of the spacemen are in excellent physical condition, even though there is no set schedule for them to follow. Being in top condition is more or less left up to each man.

A more formal program may be ordered, however, should White's condition after the four-day flight be much sharper than that of McDivitt. Divitt.

Areas in which Berry will be most interested in making comparisons of the post-flight conditions of the two astronauts include the cardiovascular system, blood pooling in the lower legs, calcium output and bone demineralization.

Omahan Involved In Fatal Accident During Rainstorm

El Dorado, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Helen L. Moore, 48, of Wichita was killtd Monday in an accident during a heavy rainstorm on the Kansas Turnpike.

The turnpike patrol said Mrs. Moore was driving south when she lost control, skidded sideways through the median strip into the northbound lane where her car was struck broadside by a car driven by Larry L. Nichelson, 32, of Omaha, Neb.

Nichelson, his wife, Lenice, 29, and their children, Julie, 7, Sherry, 9, and Connie, 11, were treated for cuts and bruises at an El Dorado hospital and released.

The accident occurred four miles north of the El Dorado interchange.

Lincoln Marine, Wounded In Viet Fighting, Decorated

Marine Captain Peter J. Vogel, son of Mrs. Roberta Montgomery of Lincoln, has been awarded a Purple Heart medal for wounds received during a combat mission in South Viet Nam.

Vogel was wounded when his helicopter was fired at by the Viet Cong March 31. Vogel has been in the service since 1955.

Five other Lincoln servicemen were recognized for their roles in the amphibious landings in South Viet Nam May 7. The landing was the largest since Korea.

For service aboard the USS Canberra: Seaman Appren. Steven P. Vampola, son of George F. Vampola; Seaman Peter Kalita, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kalita; Capt. Mark W. Woods, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Pace Woods.

For service aboard the USS Bexar: Fireman Appren. William K. Kolb, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kolb; Seaman Appren. William G. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Williams.

Seaman James. L. Jungers, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jungers of Lincoln, is returning home following a seven-month battle cruise aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hancock.

Saint Benedict Mass To Be Said In Europe

Vatican City (AP) — The Congregation of Rites of the Roman Catholic Church approved a special mass for St. Benedict, whom Pope Paul named patron saint of Europe last fall.

The mass may be said in all Roman Catholic churches of Europe on July 11. This does not change the regular observance of March 21 as feast day of St. Benedict, founder of Western monastacism.

POSTCARD by

We had dinner the other night across the Tiber. In Trastevere. It is the working-man's section of Rome. The walls hang over the narrow cobbled streets. In the warm evening, the people of Trastevere bring their dinners down to the little wine shops. Where the rent of an outdoor table is only a flask of red wine from the Tuscan hills.

The Tiber has always divided the Trastevere people from those across the river. And in early days, the two sides threw rocks at each other.

A friend of mine told me: "The Trasteverini think of themselves as the true Romans. It is something like the Left Bank of Paris."

☆ ☆ ☆

After dinner we went over to the Piazza del Pantheon to call on the cats of Rome.

There are thousands of homeless cats in Rome.

They live in the ruins of the Forum. They prance across the moonlit floor of the Colosseum. They walk through the pillars of the Pantheon built by Marcus Agrippa to celebrate his sea victory over Anthony and Cleopatra.

They wander through Piazza Vittorio. And the Roman ruins where Queen Christina of Sweden inscribed a formula for making lead into gold. (Pretty nice of her, I say).

There is a sidewalk cafe in the Piazza del Pantheon. And in the evening, you can watch the people of the district come down and feed the cats.

"They have favorites," said the waiter. We sat on the sidewalk drinking the foamy cappuccino. A coffee topped with whipped milk and sprinkled with bitter chocolate.

"They know the cats. In Rome, we do not keep cats at home. These cats of the ruins are our household cats. They belong to all Rome.

"They watch over the cats. And many people give them special diets. They bring little specialties. A piece of liver. A taste of veal. They treat them as you treat your own cats who live with you."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Nobody knows," said the waiter, "when the cats came to Rome. Some say it was in the days when Egypt was part of the Empire. The Egyptians worshiped cats. Perhaps there were cat gods in the Pantheon.

"The ancient Romans were relaxed about the gods. The Pantheon housed many gods beside the Roman deities."

During the war when food was scarce in Rome, the cats disappeared.

"When you saw rabbit on the menu," said the waiter, "you said, 'ah ha, another cat!

☆ ☆ ☆

Now the cats are back. There is a wide, deep trench around the Pantheon. Rome has risen on the debris of years. And the city of the Caesars is 10 to 20 feet below the level of Rome today.

The trench — the original level—was full of cats.

There were cats with kittens nested in niches in the wall.

A few cats sat in the shadows of the pillars with moonlight flooding all around. They sat silently with feline grace.

An elderly lady came by with a little sack of food. She called and two cats came from the shadows and she fed them. The others did not move.

The waiter said: "She is one of the regulars. The cats know this and know which ones she feeds."
